Hometown Holiday

Communities, retailers gear up to make holiday memories

As soon as the table is cleared from the annual Thanksgiving feast, the minds of parents and the dreams of children turn to Christmas and the nation's biggest retail season.

Local merchants and communities team up to bring shoppers downtown for an alternative shopping experience, which includes unique gifts as well as memorable holiday events.

Antioch hosts Christmas parade

In Antioch, many of the season spirit-setting events begin the Friday evening after Thanksgiving Day.

A Thanksgiving and Christmas Parade, sponsored by the Antioch Parks and Recreation Department, kicks-off at 6:30 p.m., Friday night, Nov. 28. The parade starts at Victoria Street. It officially welcomes Santa Claus to his Enchanted Castle at the corner of Toft Avenue and Orchard Street.

At 7 p.m., Friday night, there will be caroling and hot chocolate as the village tree lighting ceremony takes place. The tree is in front of the Antioch Village Hall.

Starting Saturday, Nov. 29, there are events for children that will allow parents to shop the downtown Lake Street and Main Street areas, without their children. Children's Magician Kenneth Lonnquist will perform at PM&L Theater at 10 a.m. under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce and Industry. Also, at 10:30 a.m., at the Antioch Theater, the First National Bank-Employee Owned, will sponsor the movie "Harriet The Spy." Admission to each entertainment event is two or more non-perishable food items to be donated to the Antioch Food Pantry.

Shopping customers who purchase $25 or more in merchandise will receive a ticket for a free ride, one ticket per person, in a carriage around town. The rides start Saturday evening and continue on Saturdays and Sundays through Dec. 21, from 1 to 4 p.m.

To add to the atmosphere, the downtown tree branches are lit with tiny white points of lights. It's small town in looks and personal service, but Chamber of Commerce President Ed Cimaglio says it is more than that. "We have a small town atmosphere with 21st century technology. There is no small town thinking."

"Anyone who wants to shop in a nice hometown atmosphere, Antioch is the place to be," he said.

a schedule of events.

Lake Villa-Lindenhurst merchants offer bargains

Lake Villa-Lindenhurst Chamber of Commerce members have set out to provide a community contribution to the spirit of the holiday season. Chamber members will donate food to the township food pantry. Also, shopping in Lake Villa and Lindenhurst stores may win gifts for three lucky families whose entries are drawn.

On Tuesday, Nov. 25 the Chamber sponsored its holiday luncheon at Hastings Lake YMCA. Chamber President Bob Ringa asked attendees to bring a can of tuna fish to be donated to the Lake Villa Township Food Pantry.

Historical Society, Chamber host community traditions

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Events to create a special atmosphere throughout Antioch are sponsored by the Lakes Region Historical Society, State Bank of the Lakes, the Chamber of Commerce and Industry, and ERA Stateline Realty. They range from gingerbread houses and wishing trees to holiday lights and historical tree displays. In addition, the annual LaSalette Festival of Lights features the Antioch Community High School Madrigal Singers Nov. 30.

Condell Medical Center's Manager of Food Service, John Edgell of Antioch, is building a 10-foot tall gingerbread house in the lobby of State Bank of the Lakes at 400 Lake Street all day Friday, Nov. 28. The final creation will contain 200 pounds of sugar and egg, 100 pounds of gingerbread, over 300 pieces of candy, and numerous toys and treats as decorations. The gingerbread house will be on display from Nov. 29 to the New Year in the bank lobby.

The Dec. 4 annual Winter Warm-up Raffle of the Historical Society embodies the community traditions of holiday spirit and music through the decades of the community. Madrigal Singers will perform their holiday program as guests are served refreshments and people prepare to participate in the raffle that helps the society keep the building warm.

The evening begins at 7:30 p.m. at the old school house at 817 Main Street. It provides a chance to view a display of period tree decorations through history and in Antioch. Ainsley Wonderling, said that the decorated trees are in the Victorian parlor room, the Colonial room, the school room, and there's an Old World Tree. The Old World Tree reflects the European origins of the tree decoration tradition. Members of the Conservation Club and the Garden Club decorate the trees with the society.

A village-wide event that has created a special atmosphere is Holiday Lights of Antioch. "It's been building more and more over the years. In the last three years it's really grown," said Chamber of Commerce and Industry President Ed Cimaglio. The Chamber offers three prizes worth $250 each to homes within village limits that have been decorated for the season. Con-

Downtown work starts on new park, sidewalks, ponds

By KENNETH PATCHEN

Village and business-sponsored projects will unfold during the next four or five months to improve the appearance and use of downtown Antioch business and open space areas.

The projects have been in the planning stages for 18 months.

Community Development Director Claude LeMere outlined anticipated plans and schedules for the downtown improvements at the Nov. 20 Business Meeting of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

LeMere discussed the ice-skating ponds between Skidmore Street and Sequoit Creek, improvements behind the businesses along the east side of Main Street, expected new

Main Street sidewalks, and expected fund-raising efforts to build a bandshell and skating warming shelter. He said the village will work to save the downtown trees during the sidewalk project.

Ice-skating areas will be the result of stormwater detention ponds to be built adjacent to Sequoit Creek.

"This is part of a system that is going to be a model for Lake County and the State of Illinois as far as how to manage (stormwater) discharge from parking lots from a cluster development area," LeMere said of the Skidmore Street location. "This is a one-of-a-kind system," he told approximately two dozen business leaders gathered for the regular Chamber meeting. "We should start to excavate the ponds in the next 30 days," he said.

The Orchard Avenue and Skidmore Street intersection will serve as the entrance to a new social and cultural district adjacent to the east side of the downtown business area.

HOLIDAY: Communities and retailers gear up for season ber and local business members are sponsoring two special events.

"We have published with the Advertiser a booklet titled 'Twenty-five Days of Tradition,' said Ringa. "It contains 25 memorable holiday remembrances of 25 people in the community," he said. The booklet contains exclusive advertising for Chamber members and special values for possible gifts.

Chamber members and Lakeland Publishers are sponsoring a holiday contest. "Three families will win a Christmas stocking filled with gifts from participating Chamber members," said Ringa. "There are three places and times when entry forms may be submitted," he said. Entry forms are submitted at the Santa Workshop sponsored by the Chamber.

The times and locations of Santa at the Santa Workshop are: Nielsen Plaza, Dec. 6, 9 a.m. to noon; Linden Plaza, Dec. 13, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.; and, the Train Station in Lake Villa, Dec. 20, noon to 4:30 p.m.

Fox Lake keeps tradition alive

Fox Lake's own Anna Korpan will flip the switch to light up the holiday season in a special ceremony, Nov. 28, at the village's newest park and first ever community Christmas tree across from Lakeland Plaza. Carolers from the high school and grade school will be mingling throughout the crowds and the Fox Lake Fire Department will be serving cookies and hot chocolate to all who attend.

Back for its 41st year is the Korpan's Landing Christmas Parade through the streets of Fox Lake on Saturday, Nov. 29, at 11 a.m.

Richmond personifies Rockwell painting

"It looks like a Rockwell painting in Richmond at the holidays," said Connie Meadie, director of the Richmond/Spring Grove Chamber of Commerce. "The town lends itself to the holiday time, the merchants take great pride to preserve the old time feeling. Shoppers to the unique shops can enjoy a leisurely day and enjoy the holidays as they are meant to be."

Richmond's Christmas of Yesterday will be celebrated Nov. 28-30, with visits with Santa from noon-3 p.m. free wagon rides and Gazebo House Tours.

ed all along Orchard," he said. There will be huge boulders to mark the entrance. The entrance will be created in the spring.

A boardwalk will frame the retention pond edges. In the midst of the two-acre lawn area will be a bandshell. The front of the bandshell will face downtown Antioch. The village will soon start to assemble money and grants to build the bandshell. "We do not have a cost estimate on it yet," LeMere said in response to a question.

LeMere said the area will be closed-off occasionally to permit public events such as Taste of Antioch. "It will be like Ravinia. You can bring a blanket and sit down to enjoy a concert or outdoor theater or whatever we might have," he said. The site is expected to hold more than 2,500 people. Traffic will be able to move through the area on a new road constructed closer to the backs of the businesses.

"We'll be redoing the parking lot behind BJ's Fashions for men before the next freeze," LeMere said. He expected that it might be paved in early December. During the winter, utilities in the area will be moved to new locations. A painting program to color-coordinate the backs of businesses will be started. Some owners may choose to build entrances from the back to their business.

"In the spring, we're going to have all new sidewalks on Main Street, (and) new street lighting," LeMere said. "We are going to make an attempt to save the trees." He said, "Locusts are very, very, very hardy trees." LeMere expects the tree's foliage area to be pruned by half this winter in order to help the trees survive in the spring. LeMere said that the sidewalks would be an early March, 1998 project.

test registration with the Chamber is required by Dec. 5 at 395-2233 (ask for Vivian Tauscheck). The contest is intended to encourage people with their outdoor holiday decorating. Tauscheck said that last year's winner was Lee Shannon. "It was just beautiful," she said. "He had lights and figures. You had to stop and look at it to take it all in."

One of the most direct ways to give gifts for children who may not receive very much during gift exchanges is possible with the Wishing Tree at Era Stateline Realty, Inc. at 368 North Avenue. "This is our third year of doing this," said Yvonne Tjian-Gayhart. The tree holds tags with the gender and age of children from one week to 16 or 17 years of age. The tag contains suggested toys the individual might appreciate having. "This year we have 115 (tags)," she said. "We've already gone through about 75 tags," Tjian-Gayhart said.

People or companies who take tags will return the gift and tag so ERA Stateline Realty may be return them to the Share Center in Munster, Wisconsin. Share distributes the gifts to the children.

Chamber tours stores, hears stories

By KENNETH PATCHEN

Every store in Antioch's business districts has a story. Whether on North Avenue, along Route 173, on Lake Street, or on Main Street, each store represents a particular vision for business and possesses specialized equipment and services to help area residents.

At the Nov. 20 meeting, Chamber members visited five local businesses to hear of the technology and merchandise each had to offer customers. The Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry sponsors member visits to stores so merchants may better guide area customers to a business able to help them.

Tour guide Barbara Porch brought Chamber members to her Choosey Child store at 891 Main Street. "We try not to carry anything that is run-of-the-mill," she told tour participants. The store sells baby gifts, apparel, and pre-teen clothes she said. They have boys' outerwear and pageant wear. "I don't know who likes these (clothes) more, the kids or the moms," she said.

MaryKay Tointon at Elite Embroidery, 893 Main Street, showed the group her state-of-the-art 12 needle embroidery machine. "I'm very proud of what we do," she told the group as she described their services for small batch orders. "We do custom embroidery," Tointon said. She has three machines to embroider on jackets, hats, chair covers, horse blankets.

Elite Embroidery caters to small businesses. Tointon has 15,000 designs that she can provide customers in addition to 55 letter styles. "Our embroidery is much nicer than bigger operations," she said. Her newest piece of equipment will create a design with 12 thread colors.

Dale Perryman, owner of Books Etc., 901 Main Street, said, "This is a bookstore. We sell books." As a bookstore, he has unique cards, magazines, and does special orders for a mix of services to his customers.

"I try to keep current as far as the top ten (books)," he told the tour group. He also has Oprah Winfrey Books available when they are released. He can special order any book by computer and has a gift registry for people who want to leave behind gift suggestions for friends and relatives.

Randy Nolan at Impressions Count, 907 Main Street, does specialty printing of all types. "We've updated all equipment in the past 14 months," he said. The new equipment helps him do design and layout services. He still has the letterheads, postcards, and traditional printing services, but they are done in a modern way. "We've gone a lot into the commercial side.... We have grown with the new technology."

Nolan does custom items such as mugs, pencils, and other specialty items. "I am an advertising specialties dealer," he also noted. Mugs take two weeks, or sooner if customers want to pay express mail charges.

Dan Sills of Betty Sills Gallery, 909 Main Street, said the gallery sells only the art work of Betty Sills. "Everything is limited edition prints," he said of the store inventory. He said that they print Betty Sills art on watercolor paper with the result that it is hard to tell the original from the prints.

"There are 350 scenes we sell here," he said of the framed art lining the walls. There are many people who collect her art around the country and this is the only retail location.

ACHS play featured excellent performances

The Man Who Came to Dinner" appeared on the Antioch Community High School Stage last weekend. People not there missed some excellent performances within the overall highly enjoyable production. Shawn Hansen was incredible in his role as Beverly Carlton. His sense of comedy really helps him pull it off well. The night I was there he got applause as he left the stage. Another outstanding performance was Vita Gold as Maggie Cutler. She had a substantial role and she filled it out with strong attention to the full range of emotions her character experiences. The set, technical direction, lighting were all well done. Did people in the 1930s in Ohio really buy wallpaper like that?

Keeley Ann Thode of Antioch is the 1998 Petite Miss and she will be helping to collect food, fill boxes, and prepare them for the trip to the Antioch Food Pantry. Others who will also appear are 1998 Little Miss Kaitlyn Williams, of Gurnee, 1998 Junior Miss Stephanie Raciak, of Mundelein, and 1998 Teen Miss Michelle Czach, of Wauconda. Food items that are especially helpful include peanut butter, jelly, canned soup, and cereal. People are asked to bring two or more non-perishable food items to the movie for admission.

Jodi Eckert, of the Antioch Junior Woman's Club, has Entertainment Coupon Books for sale through Christmas this year. This is the book that offers coupons and discounts to local businesses including restaurants and movie theaters. Funds raised from the sale of the coupon books will be included in the annual donations the club makes to local charities and scholarship funds. Holiday gift books can be purchased for other areas in the United States. The cost is $30 and they can be ordered from Eckert at 395-4282.

The Village Council paused to recognize volunteer service to the community by the Beautification Committee at the Nov. 17 council meeting. Mayor Marilyn Shineflug congratulated each person individually and gave those present a volunteer pin shaped like a key.

Mayor Shineflug said that the community appreciates the work the committee has done. "It really has made a difference in the community."

Claude LeMere, community development director for the village, said, "If I were to describe this group, I would have to use words like devotion, community pride, and reliability," he said, "I don't think we have a volunteer group as devoted as this one. They are absolutely the best."

Trustee Mabel Lou Weber said at the end of the ceremony, "I am so very very proud of all the work you do. Our village has never looked nicer, and it is because of your efforts. Thank you."

The Beautification Committee in 1997 had the following members, all of whom received gold volunteer lapel pins: Claude LeMere, Debbie Kerr, Earla Ludden, Joanne DuGenske, Ralph Gussarson, Ruthie Gussarson, Ethel Pechulis, Dorothy Larson, Doris Miller, Nancy Zitkus, and Nels Rasmussen.

When Gail Rasmussen was given her pin, she said, "I hope the board appreciates all the extra time Claude and Billie (Horton) put in."

Others receiving pins included: Trudy Anderson, Billie Horton, Joyce Olsen, Garnet Carney, George Lynch, Tom Poulos, Dave Hoeh, Debbie Wegner, Harley Ware, Diane Falk, Paul Meltzer, Yvonne Meltzer, Ina Johnson, Dave Delander, Nancy Delander, Joanne Lezeau, Connie Campbell, Ellen Kessler, and Fred Stahl.

The Beautification Committee was established to enhance retail, industrial, and residential areas of the village by landscaping, flower gardens, and maintenance of these areas. Its work is guided by the Antioch Community Development Department.

Start a new holiday tradition

Once upon a time Thanksgiving was the one day a year where family gathered around a table laden with turkey and all its trimmings and counted their blessings. The more sentimental souls even exchanged verbal admiration's to their loved ones. Mother praised the accomplishments of their loving children, fathers showered devoted intentions on their obedient wives, and all was good.

Unfortunately, this is the 90s and things have changed quite a bit. Back in 1691 when the first Thanksgiving was celebrated do you suppose after filling their bellies with all the culinary delights of the day, the dad pilgrims leaned back in their favorite chaise lounge chair, undid the top button of their trousers, and let out a mighty belch while reaching for the remote control? I rather doubt it.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

Somewhere over the course of history the true meaning of the holiday got lost in between team records and player stats. In this day and age Thanksgiving is a good excuse to overindulge in food, wine and spirits and watch the almighty, ever worshipped football. You ask any full grown, sports enthusiast what Thanksgiving means to them and they will say a day off in the middle of the week to watch football.

Loving family, substantial career, or good health will never even cross their conical-shaped brains. You ask any wife, mother, or grandmother who slaves over Thanksgiving dinner what cherished meanings the holiday holds for them and you are bound to be sneered at that it is imperative that the dinner hour naturally be planned around the local sports team kick-off time. Football again appears in the answer.

It seems to be a phenomenon that all America is obsessed with. If you think about it, it seems unfair that those poor players are forced to put aside their family obligations for this day and go to work when most every other American male is home lounging in front of the TV. I suppose these wealthy athletes feel some vindication as they sport their daily tee off times during the off season while those poor slobs, who lounged on Thanksgiving day, are pounding the pavement earning their meager paycheck. So they celebrate Thanksgiving the day or two after the actual day, seems kind of incidental when they go to the bank to deposit their earnings.

It seems that while football permeates the very being of Thanksgiving, we could indeed give all the wives, mothers, and grandmothers out there who spend hours preparing a feast like no other feast of the year, a break from all their hard work.

Next year on Thanksgiving as the testosterone club forms a semicircle around the living room TV, serve them a meal they would better appreciate than any roasted turkey and fancy trimmings. Throw a couple of pizza's on the coffee table and crack a cold one under their noses. And, if you really feel festive and want to keep with the holiday spirit, serve them their beer in a chilled mug—guaranteed to be a Thanksgiving they always remember.

Bus tour

In case you are still interested the Antioch Library Friends still have room on their Christmas Buys Tour up to the village of Cedarburg, Wisc. The trip takes place, Saturday, Dec. 6. The Motorcoach will pick you up from the Municipal parking lot (behind Ben Franklin) at 9:30 a.m. and return you to the same spot by 5:30 p.m. The price is $45 per person and includes transportation, a gourmet lunch, tax and gratuity. Make your reservation by calling Nancy Brown at 838-2332.

Holiday season features b-ball tournaments

This time of year is great for basketball junkies like me. If you want to see some good high school basketball, this is the time. Thanksgiving represents the start of the high school basketball season, with every other school either hosting a tournament or competing in someone else's. It's great to go watch a game, then stick around and watch another, come back the next day and watch the two winners play.

This might just be the purest form of team competition—the tournament. Each team must win to advance, and play a number of games in a short period of time, testing the talent, skill, depth and endurance of each and every team. At the end, truly the best teams over the 2-3 day tournament are left standing, and the final game pits the two in a heated struggle for tournament supremacy.

The Mundelein boys basketball team hosts the Mustang Turkey Classic this weekend, while Grayslake and Antioch are at the Lake Zurich Tournament this week, and Libertyville plays at the Niles West Tournament.

This phenomenon continues through the year, as most teams play at in least three tournaments over the course of the season, the two major tourney times being Thanksgiving and Christmas. So, all you hoopsters, cagers and round-ball roadies, get ready, because the basketball tournament season is here—forget March Madness, it's Holiday Hoops!

Grayslake Community High School announced it's special football awards recently at its Fall Wards Night Banquet.

Receiving honors were: Most Valuable Player: Neil Schroeder; Most Valuable Offensive Lineman: Nik Staver; Most Valuable Offensive Back: Neil Schroeder; Most Valuable Receiver: Chris Amick; Most Valuable Defensive Lineman: Adam Peregrin; Most Valuable Linebacker: Paul Grace; Most Valuable Defensive Back: James Clifford; Most Improved Player: Todd Cabonor; Coaches Award: Jason Palo; Captain Stars: Neil Schroeder, Jason Palo, James Clifford and Paul Grace; All-Conference: Neil Schroeder and Paul Grace.

COLLEGE CORNER

Junior halfback Bjorn Johnson, a 5-10, 205 graduate of Mundelein High School, was named to the All-CCIW second team for the first time after leading Wheaton College in rushing with 99 carries for 583 yards and a team-high six rushing touchdowns. He ranked sixth in the CCIW in rushing overall and 10th in CCIW games. Johnson also caught 11 passes for 122 yards and one touchdown, and returned two kicks for 32 yards. He ranked second on the team with 737 all-purpose yards, and second in scoring with 44 points. Johnson recorded a career-high against Aurora (139 yards) and broke the century mark again against Carthage (1-2).

Anne Ward, a graduate of Mundelein High School, is a member of the Indiana University women's water polo team that posted an 18-14 record, finishing second in the Big Ten, second in the Midwest Division I tournament, and 12th in the country.

Antioch girls hold on for win

Sequoits girls go 1-3 at Dundee-Crown Thanksgiving Tournament

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Antioch High's girls basketball team was glad to see the end of a game with Crystal Lake South come, and how it came about.

The Sequoits prevailed 34-28 for a win in the Dundee-Crown Thanksgiving Tournament in Carpentersville.

"We had three hours between our previous game and the South game at 6:30 p.m. It showed. We were a real tired team in the third and fourth quarters," said ACHS coach Dave Woods.

Antioch lost to Rockford Harlem 43-33 in its first Saturday game. In the tourney opener, ACHS fell to Dundee-Crown 58-34, both superior rebounding teams.

Nicole Langley had 17 points in the win over the South Gators.

"We did not play bad the first two quarters. Nicole had nine of our 14 points in the first quarter," said Woods.

Antioch (2-2) held a 19-10 lead at halftime, then fended off South rallies for its second win.

A 9-0 setback at the outset of the loss to Harlem was too much to overcome. The Sequoits staged a rally for a 26-22 deficit at halftime.

"They had a 6-foot 1 girl who had all of her 23 points in the paint," said Woods.

Aja Brown had 12 points to lead Antioch in another loss (53-33) to Dundee-Crown. Lisa Ipsen added eight points.

"They were rated No. 12 in the state when we played them. We are not ready this early in the season to play teams of that caliber," said Woods.

In both losses the Sequoits were not able to use their bread-and-butter—pressure defense.

"We are using the tournament games at Dundee-Crown to learn a lot about ourselves and get us going in the right direction," said Woods.

"We are not ready this early in the season to play teams of that caliber."

The 1997 Antioch Vikings Lightweights posted a 12-0 record and won the Pop Warner Super Bowl in Iowa over the Blue Springs Gators from Kansas City, Missouri. The Antioch Vikings Lightweights (not in order): Trent Domel, Chase Saldivar, Matt Jones, Tom Wolter, Matt Elliot, Chris Orozco, Brett Bairstow, Jim Huspen, Jeff Welter, Brian Peters, Ian Lazaretti, Richardo Estrada, Beau Biller, Billy Merker, Chris Carlson, J.J. Carter, Erik Sesko, A.J. Basler, Mike Klingler, Adam Lehn, Mike Devries, Jason Wegel, David Hartmann, Eric Schultz, head coach Denny Porter, assistants Fernando Lopez, Jim Peters, Jarrell Richardson, and John Lesniak.

Vikings win youth super bowl

The Antioch Vikings Lightweight football team traveled to Cedar Falls, Iowa to meet the Kansas City, Missouri Blue Springs Gators in the National Champs-National Pop Warner Football Youth Super Bowl and came home with their 54th-straight win and the bowl championship. The game was played at the indoor UNI-Dome at Northern Iowa University, where the temperature was 72 degrees.

"I think we represented our community, the Junior football League of Northern Illinois (JFLNI) and the state very well," said Viking head coach Denny Porter. "Winning a game of this stature really says a lot for our program," he added. This Youth Super Bowl game was played at the 20,000 seat indoor UNI-Dome on artificial Astro-Turf.

The Vikings wasted little time getting on the score board. They took the opening drive 52 yards on 7 plays capped off by a 7 yard Brett Bairstow run. After holding the Gators QB Trent Domel engineered a second scoring drive that took 9 plays and 3 of 4 pass completions ending in a 4 yard Matt Elliott run. When Jim Huspen kicked the extra point the Vikings were in command 14-0. But the Blue Springs offensive unit found some holes in Antioch's defense and scored a pair of TD's early in the second quarter to get within one at 14-13.

The Viking program will compete in the Shriner's Crippled Children Football Classic in Atlanta, Ga. Thanksgiving weekend.

Books Etc. to hold fair for Friends

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Books Etc. will host its first book fair for Antioch's library in cooperation with Antioch Library Friends. The book fair is Dec. 11, 12, and 13.

All store merchandise at Books Etc. is part of the book fair offerings. Store owner Dale Perryman will donate 15 percent of the receipts to the Antioch Library.

The store is expected also to have an initial shipment of the new library coffee mugs.

"Books are great Christmas gifts," said Nancy Brown of the library volunteer group Antioch Library Friends. She said that if people are thinking of buying books for gifts, this would be a good place to buy them and contribute to the library at the same time.

"He has a very wide selection of Christmas books," she said. "He has a reading corner with coffee where people can sit and read." She said that all the calendars, cards, children's books, maps and travel books, best sellers, writing paper, candles, periodicals, journals, and everything in the children's Chicken Soup series would be available for the sale.

"I'm bringing in some extra books," Perryman said of his plans for the fair. He said that he has a very full store for the holiday season but new materials are always arriving. "I've got new magazines coming in," he said. "I've got some great coffee table books."

Perryman said that his store now has all of the books, craft ideas, and the activity series for the American Girl collection of dolls. "I have all the series including the new one, Josephina." For the Josephina doll, he has the first three books about her life, which includes the Christmas one." The American Girl Collection is manufactured by The Pleasant Company and includes dolls for children that are set in specific historical periods. Books are available about their lives. The dolls are sold only by the company, but the books are available in book store.

The Antioch Library Friends are selling coffee mugs for the first time. It is a white mug with a stacked book design that has the volunteer organization's name down the spines of the books. It is a standard mug that they are selling for $5 as a fund raiser said Brown. The mugs will also be available permanently at the library's circulation desk.

Brown said that this is the first time the Antioch Library Friends have done a book fair. She said that they are in charge of the publicity for the fair and are getting the word out to schools and using other information outlets such as the village newsletter. She said, "It is very generous of (Perryman) to do (this fair)."

Thursday and Friday evenings the store is open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. The store is open Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Basic car tune-ups are necessary, easy

With more and more cars featuring advanced electronic systems, many consumers think a basic tune-up is either unnecessary or too hard to do. Not true.

A basic tune-up is as necessary and easy as ever before. In addition, a tune-up can help maintain peak engine performance and gas mileage from season to season and contribute to a cleaner environment.

Spark plug wear

If you are a DIYer—or ready to become one—your tune-up should include checking or changing spark plugs and spark plug wires.

There are usually telltale signs of spark plug wear. Plugs are probably still good if there are just light tan or brown deposits on the electrode and insulator tip. A heavy deposit which is either sooty or oily, however, indicates the plugs could foul soon and should be replaced. In addition, if the electrodes are rounded off due to erosion, the plugs are worn and should be replaced. Lastly, if your car takes longer to start, or if it stalls, or runs sluggishly, it's probably time to change your plugs.

Check wire sets

While working on spark plugs, check your wire sets. Inspect wires carefully for cuts, cracks, brittleness or signs of oil saturation. Another sign that new wires may be needed: your car won't start or it stalls in wet weather. It's easy to change plugs and wire sets at the same time because you have to remove the wires to get to the plugs. You just stick to one cylinder at a time.

When preparing to change your plugs and wires, the first thing to do, is line up the tools you'll need: a screwdriver to remove wires from the loom or holder and a spark plug wrench with a universal and extension to remove and replace the old plugs. Use a rag to clean around the spark plug hole and silicone grease/lube for the spark plug boot connection.

Changing plugs and wires

To change plugs and wires, follow these steps:

- Beginning with the longest wire, carefully remove the spark plug wire from the plug. (Hint: Don't grab the wire and yank. Use your fingers or pliers to grip the boot and twist.)
- Clean in and around the plug hole with a clean rag. You can also use a straw to blow loose dirt away from the hole.
- Remove the old plug with the spark plug wrench. If your plugs are difficult to access, you may have to use the universal and extension piece.
- If using a spark plug torque wrench, check your owner's manual for the correct torque.
- Install new plug.
- Remove the other end of the wire from the distributor cap, if applicable, and attach the new wire.
- Apply silicone grease to the inside of the boot.
- Attach the boot carefully to the plug.
- Route the wire and attach it to the clip.

Repeat the above steps for each plug and wire until all have been changed. If you plan to use a wire feeler gauge to check plug gap or a torque wrench, if available, to install the new plugs, refer to your owner's manual for the correct settings.

If you install the new plugs with a spark plug wrench, make sure the plugs are clean and dry. Then, tighten the plug with your fingers until it is snug and consult your owner's manual for correct tightening to prevent overtightening or stretching the plugs.

Beans are booming

Coffeehouses continue to open across Lake County, each offering something different

By ELIZABETH EAKEN
Staff Reporter

Coffee is a hot business these days. Shop owners are perking interest with diversified businesses offering a place to relax, shop and give yourself a diversion from the daily grind.

In Lake County there seems to be a coffeehouse to satisfy every taste. The increase of coffeehouse-style businesses can be seen in almost every community, no matter how small or large. Whether you prefer the European atmosphere, a cozy neighborhood joint, eclectic entertainment or a cybercafe. Most of the coffeehouses in the county have opened within the last five years.

Nancy Watson, owner of Brewster's Coffee, a four-year fixture in downtown Libertyville on Milwaukee Avenue, and Landfall Coffee Shop in the heart of historic Long Grove, believes there's a reason for the resurgence in the popularity of coffeehouses.

"The coffeehouse has been a trend for a while, but it doesn't seem to be dying off," she said. "American's love good coffee."

She believes the reason several coffeehouses are able to operate successfully in downtown Libertyville is because the community really likes the hometown feel and a coffee house that they can bring their families into.

"I think the appeal comes from the European idea of a coffeehouse where people sit down and talk. This brings them together in a nice close knit relationship, more than a restaurant. I think Americans like that instead of the get you in get you out mentality and Starbucks has taught everyone about the gourmet drink," she said.

Starbucks, a national coffeehouse chain is actually located only a block away from Brewster's as well as several other establishments serving gourmet coffee. Watson said she doesn't think this impacts her business because they are all doing something a little different and they're all far enough apart.

Coffeehouses are an alternative to the bar scene and a place for young people to congregate, if they're not old enough to be admitted to a nightclub.

Imagination plus

Imagine a place where cars are made from tin cans. Where a tiny finger can change the course of a river, and a ship can sail around the world in a day. Imagine a place big enough to host a child's imagination. It's the new Chicago Children's Museum, with 57,000 square feet dedicated to the curiosity and creativity of children ages one to 12. Children can become artists, scientists, and leaders at the Chicago Children's Museum. Within the museum's doors, children are everything.

Children can make themselves a chair, build a table, or anything they can imagine in Under Construction. Kids can become quiz show contestants in the Face to Face Exhibit. How about answering 911 emergencies? Kids can drive an ambulance and fix broken bones in City Hospital. Other imaginative exhibits include Inventing Lab, Artabounds, Grandparents, The Stinking Truth About Garbage, Waterways, and Treehouse Trails.

The Chicago Children's Museum is open Tuesday through Sunday. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Free Family Nights are every Thursday from 5 to 8 p.m. Admission is $5. The Children's Museum is located at Navy Pier, 700 E. Grand Avenue, Chicago, IL. For more information, call (312) 527-1000.

A problem at home gets you upset. Turn to a loved one for advice and help. Things will be back to normal soon. Leo plays an important role.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

You need to be in two places at once during the middle of the week, Gemini, in order to get important matters taken care of. Since this just isn't possible, take some time to get your priorities in order. It's the only way to accomplish anything. A close friend is in trouble. Do what you can to help.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

While you really want to take credit for something you didn't do, your conscience won't let you. Cancer. Don't be angry with yourself. Instead, be proud that you did the right thing. That special someone has a romantic evening planned. Enjoy yourself. Sagittarius plays a key role early in the week.

Leo - July 23/August 23

You're on top of the world this week, Leo. Everything is going well, and people are acknowledging your efforts. However, don't let this praise go to your head; keep working hard. A friend introduces you to an interesting person, but don't get your hopes up. He or she is involved with someone.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

You're on pins and needles this week. You're waiting for some important news, and it's due very soon. Don't worry — you'll hear the words you've been hoping for. A business associate reveals his or her true feelings for you. While you're shocked, say yes to a date. It's sure to be a good time.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

A family argument has you worried, Libra. There's no need to fret; everything will work out for the best. You run into an old friend and want to rekindle the relationship. Ask him or her out on a date; he or she won't say no. You can catch up on what has been happening with both of you. Scorpio and Taurus play important roles.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

A co-worker's harsh words really hurt, but you can't let them get to you. Remain calm, and keep working hard. Superiors have their eyes on you to see how you're going to react. That special someone you've been seeing breaks a date. Get all of the facts before you get angry, or else you could say something that you regret.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

You need to be brave this week, Sagittarius. Shocking news from a loved one makes everyone in the family nervous. Try to remain calm and help people understand the situation. A close friend needs you to be his or her date on Friday. Help him or her out. Your efforts will be appreciated.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

Your admiration for a loved one clouds your judgment when you find out that he or she has made a bad decision. Don't let your feelings stop you from seeing what's right and what's wrong. You've got a quiet weekend ahead of you. Enjoy it.

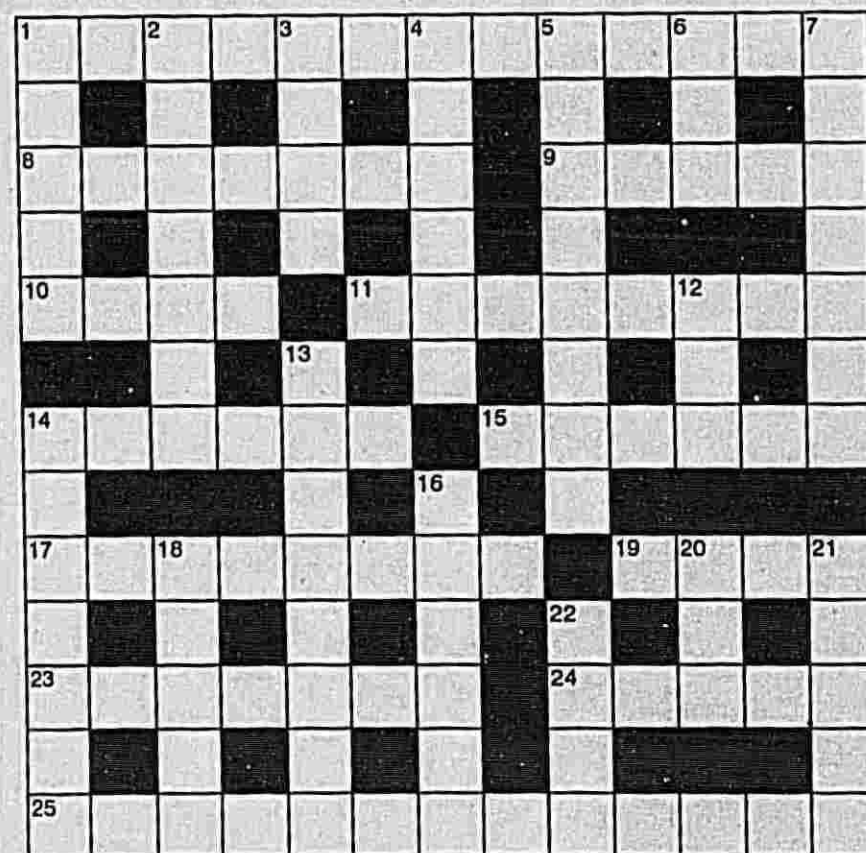

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

You're certainly full of surprises early in the week, Aquarius. You take on a lot of extra responsibilities and help relatives and friends out when problems arise. They all appreciate everything you do. A chance encounter in a store brings you together with an intriguing person. Ask him or her out.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Your compassion is wearing thin by week's end. It seems as if everyone wants your sympathy. Before you get angry with the wrong person, take some time for yourself. Clear your mind, and relax a little. It's the best way to get back to your old self again. Virgo plays an important role.

The Sultan of Scud—that Wack from Iraq is back

You know what they say: "You can't keep a bad man down." At least, not unless he's six feet under. I'm speaking of our favorite "wack from Iraq," Saddam Hussein (pronounced: "who's sane?"). He's been making the news again recently, daring President Clinton to "have it my way."

Of course, if it weren't for Saddam, I wouldn't have any good war memories to bore my kids with each holiday for the rest of their lives (I like to look for the silver lining in every situation). So, to my kids - this column's for you. And to Saddam Hussein - Happy Thanksgiving - may you choke on a camel bone.

There once was a man named Saddam from Iraq (that's next door to Iran).

He built power with fear
While we turned a deaf ear
(Our new policy since Vietnam)

But one day he looked down at Kuwait,
And said, "Hey - you are Iraqi state!"

His troops raped and plundered

Dug their bunkers down under Till George Bush said, "Hey, Saddam - now wait!"

"There's no way we'll allow what you've done.
Maybe you've been too long in the sun.

Take your troops and go home,
Or you'll face us - alone.
Do you think you can beat
'Number One'?"

Soon our allies were pledging assistance, hoping sanctions would break his resistance.

But no matter the threat
he did not break a sweat, and remained there, despite our insistence.

Mr. Bush then told Mr. Hussein,
"You are getting to be quite the pain!"

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Ahearne

Now, get out of Kuwait by the end of this date, or our bombs will be falling like rain!"

Well, Saddam didn't care what George said - he was ready for blood to be shed. "Just attack us, you'll see what real horror can be. As your men swim in rivers of red."

On the 16th, the stalemate was broken, when George Bush proved the words he had spoken.

While the night sky was black,
Allied planes bombed Iraq.
This was war - not mere gesture or token.

In response, Saddam launched a few scuds that fell mostly to earth with a thud. He dumped oil in the sea, showed captives on TV, and mainly behaved like a thug.

Said George Bush, "Saddam, you've had your chance to comply with our coalition stance.

Now there's nowhere to hide, you will die with your pride. General Swazkopf - it's time for our dance!"

Well, we know how that story turned out - The U.S. sent Saddam home to pout.

But we left him alive, And he managed to thrive. Now he's back, throwing his weight about.

Which is causing some headlines back here

And we're starting to feel that old fear - Is this man we are hating simply Saddam - or Satan? Could the end of the world soon be near?

Nah - he's still just the "Sultan of Scud", whose big plan for world power's a dud.

He can huff, he can puff, fill his stockpiles with stuff, but his name will forever be "Mud".

CRITIC'S CHOICE

'Rent' highlights urgency of the '90s

Tough realities collide with irrepressible hopes of an isolated Generation X in "Rent," a modern-day floor-vibrating rock opera that recalls "Hair" of the '60s.

As presented at Chicago's Shubert Theatre, this work, written by the late Jonathan Larson, was inspired by Puccini's 1896 operetta "La Boheme," which celebrates a struggling community of artists. "Rent" brings together its own collection of street people and creative types, from Roger the musician (Manley Pope) to Mark the filmmaker (Christian Anderson). Among others who come together in New York's East Village include a performance artist, a transvestite, and the artist's lesbian lover.

It's a cold, cruel world, with the haves keep bumping against the have-nots. AIDS is a killer that has invaded the community. New York's mean streets prove themselves a frightening place.

Yet friendships and an unspoken loyalty help society's misfits slog through another day, even when they sing despondently about how they have "only now, only here" and how they cannot control their destiny.

"Rent" is about death in the '90s, but it has life-affirming songs, too. "Take Me or Leave Me," sung by Amy Spangler and Sylvia MacCalla, is a blockbuster. "Without You," a beautiful ballad, impresses when performed in a duet by Christian Anderson and Simone.

Other winning numbers: "one Song Glory" and "La Vie Boheme/I Should Tell You."

The staging is right on target, easily switching from quiet intimacy to the big and sassy.

"Rent" is scheduled to run through March 8. Ticket information is available at (312) 902-1500. —By Tom Wittom

HAWAII'S BEST GOLF COURSES

by JIM WARNKEN

President, North Star Travel

So you think you've played some pretty tough courses? Well, you haven't seen anything until you've teed off on the 8th hole at Rockresorts on the sparsely populated Hawaiian island of Lanai, and looked down 250 feet to the fairway below. If that's not enough, just wait and see what kind of games the prevailing trade winds play with your drive!

Rockresorts is just one of the many challenging, but above all, spectacularly beautiful, golf courses on the Hawaiian Islands. Here are a few more to dream about while your frost covered clubs sit in the garage. Kauai, known as Hawaii's "Garden Isle," offers great golf on both ends of the island.

On Kauai's north coast is a golfer's paradise called Princeville. This winner of Golf magazine's Silver Medal boasts 45 holes of Robert Trent Jones designed fairways. Of those 45 holes are a couple of par threes (the third and seventh at Makai) which will really test your mettle.

Moving south on Kauai we come to the Poipu bay area and a new Robert Trent Jones Golf Course with its lush 328 Bermuda grass fairways and Tiffdwaf greens. Think your drive is pretty good? Try the 580 yard par-five number 4 on the "driveable" par-four 300 yard sixth hole.

The 13th hole at the Kona Surf Resort on the Big Island will really test your concentration. Just try to ignore the great plumes of white spray as tides try to push the entire Pacific Ocean through a lava tube off to the right of the tee.

Travel to Hawaii has dropped the last couple of years which means less crowds and much lower prices! So wipe the frost off those clubs (which fly free by the way) and quit dreaming of summer. It's waiting for you in Hawaii!

MOVIE PICK

Stellar cast in new Grisham flick

If you are among the many moviegoers who are impressed by "brand names," then the new John Grisham legalese is being spoken again in his latest film, "The Rainmaker."

As in all of Grisham's epics, we have the young lawyer, played by Matt Damon, out to save the world and make a name for himself because a young Leukemia victim is refused medical aid when a giant insurance company won't cover his treatment.

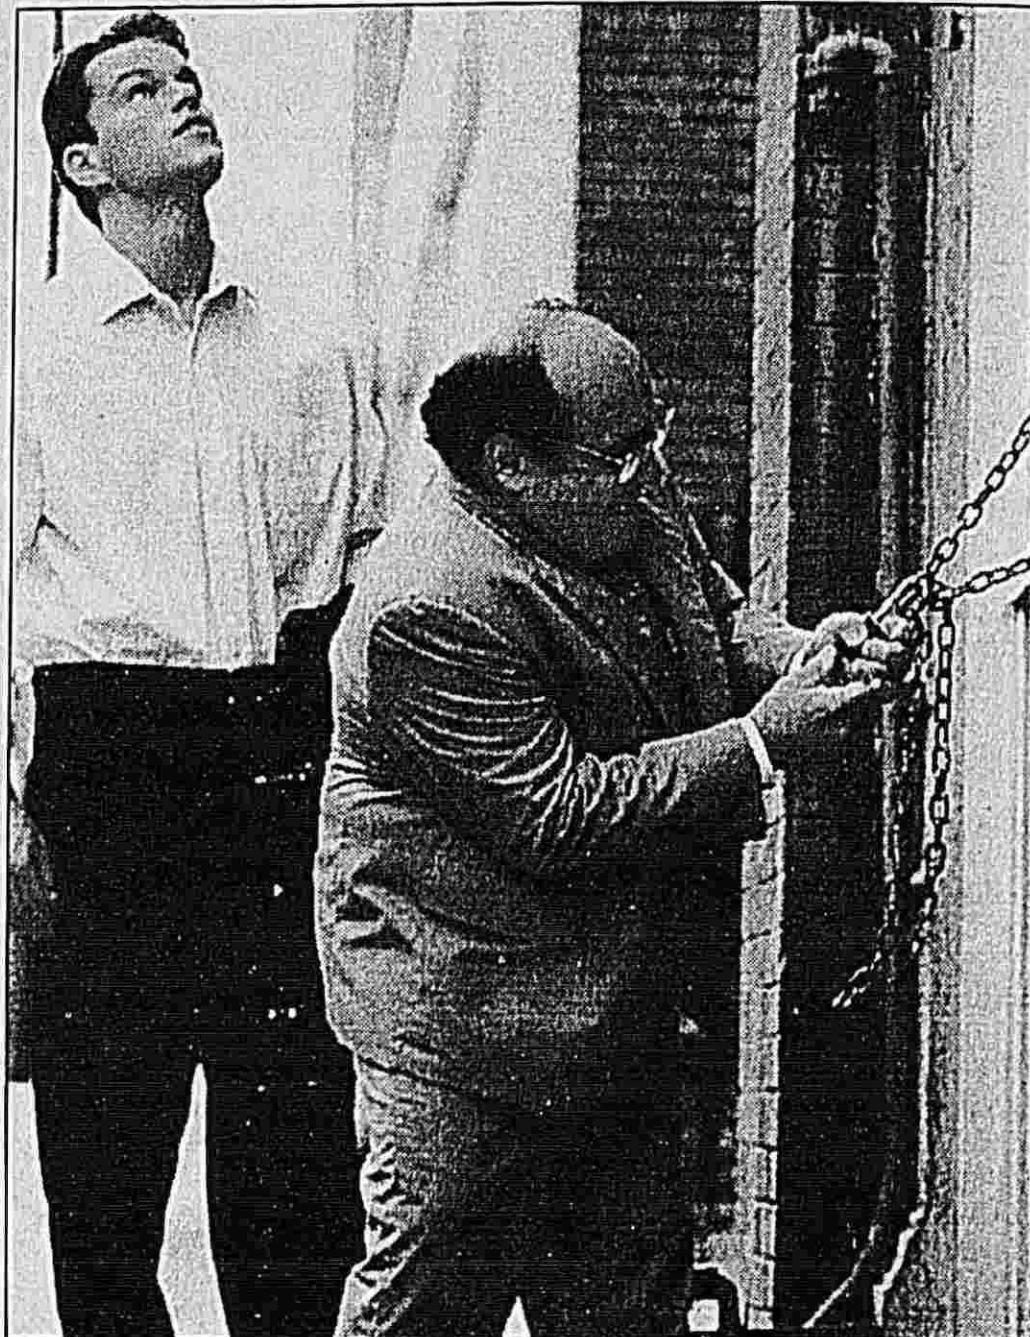

The stellar cast includes Danny DeVito, Danny Glover, Virginia Madsen, Mickey O'Rourke, Mary Kay Place, Clare Danes, Academy Award winners Jon Voight, Theresa Wright, and its screen written, directed and produced by another AA winner, Francis Ford Coppola.

In a subplot, Wright is being saved from her mercenary son. Though the subject matters are serious ones, Coppola succeeds in interjecting humor in good taste.

DeVito is the young legal eagle's sidekick, while Glover plays the judge, Madsen a claims adjuster, Voight represents the giant insurance company, O'Rourke a sleazy club owner, Mary Kay Place is the mother of the sick boy, and Danes plays Damon's troubled wife.

Although the acting is superb, the southern lawyer bit has been overdone and it's easy to lose the impetus of the story while you're looking for another star.

This PG-13 rated movie gets a 3.5 stars out of five and a "Don't wait for video" stamp.—By Gloria Davis

Matt Damon and Danny DeVito star in The Rainmaker, by John Grisham. Grisham fans will love the legal plot as well as the performances by the stellar cast in this "don't wait for the video" flick.

A grandparent's concern about eating disorders

Dear Dr. Singer,
Could you please speak a little about eating disorders. Our granddaughter is losing a lot of weight and we're concerned about it. We don't want to jump the gun and alienate her. We have done some reading about it, but wondered if you might have any light to shed on it. R.T.

Dear R.T.,

Weight loss can be an indicator of an eating disorder, but be careful because weight loss doesn't have to be happening for an eating disorder to be present. Much the same way, weight loss by itself does not have to mean an eating disorder. I will speak to several eating disorders, but my advice to anyone who is concerned about this type of problem is for them get the person in first to a Doctor to be medically evaluated and then, if necessary, in for counseling. Depending on how serious the problem is, a Doctor might recommend a hospital stay for treatment.

You may think that you have to see your child lose a tremendous amount of weight to have an eating disorder. This is not true. While weight loss can be a sign of an eating disorder, there are many other signs that you need to be aware of. If your child suffers from the eating disorder, Anorexia Nervosa, you will most likely see a great decrease in weight. You will also most likely see a preoccupation with being fat even when the child looks to us like she is thin and even extremely thin. It is seen mostly in girls around the onset of adolescence, although it can be seen in boys as well and within other age groups. The child may have rituals about eating such as cutting up the food into small pieces, rearranging it on the plate but not eating it. If a girl, periods may stop coming and the child may be exercising much more often than need be. Anorexia Nervosa is a very dangerous disease and needs professional help immediately. The problem with waiting on a disease like this is that irreversible physical damage or death might occur.

Bulimia is another eating disorder. A child who is bulimic, does not necessarily look thinner than usual. The earmark of Bulimia is a child who eats and then makes him or herself throw up afterwards. It is called bingeing and purging. Purging or getting rid of the food you have just eaten can also be aided by laxatives and diuretics (water loss pills). If you see these being used by your child excessively, there may be an eating disorder. In cases in which Bulimia has been occurring for a long time, you may notice bruises around the base of the finger that is used to promote vomiting. Teeth may also be tremendously yellow in more progressed cases from all of the vomiting. Not a pretty sight, but important for you to know if you are investigating. There is also intense, almost addictive exercise with this syndrome. If you see any of these signs and your child's weight seems the same, be concerned. Weight loss is not the only indicator of a problem.

Overeating can also be an eating disorder. This doesn't mean that if you eat a lot every once in a while that you have an eating disorder. Compulsive overeating or overeating that seems out of your control can be an eating disorder. Many people in our society eat to soothe themselves, eat to feel better, eat when bored etc. These may be psychologically motivated and might be helped with counseling, but not all overeating is a disorder. Certainly, if you feel that your eating is out of control, you would want to seek help.

Also, make sure, if they aren't involved already, to have this child's parents or legal guardians in on it with you. For many reasons, it is important to make sure that the child's legal guardians are involved in the investigation and initiation of any treatment for their child. With any of these eating disorders it is important to seek out professional help with a person who has a specialty in these areas as soon as possible. Good luck.

PARENT'S PLACE

An extremely large stage and dance floor is the place where its happening every Friday and Saturday evening. On Friday some of the most popular local country bands play their music and line dancers, as well as two-step fanciers, crowd the roomy dance floor.

On Saturday, the joint is rockin' with slow and fast live music from the '50s to some of today's favorite songs. The music and dancing can be seen and heard throughout the club.

Delicious snacks, pizza and hot popcorn from the popcorn machine will add to the enjoyment. A variety of hot appetizers will be available in the near future. Look for more theme parties and special events.

BEANS: Business is booming coffeehouse as "a hybrid of all the things that are really enjoyable."

She serves food and employs Carolyn Vanco, a pastry chef and chocolatier at the business to create delectable treats for customers.

Moka Lisa is very European in feel. Anderson opened the coffeehouse because she wanted to bring the old building where it's located back to life and spent a year renovating the building.

"This is more of a European style coffeehouse. They tend to have more of an art base. My goal was not to focus on coffee, but to bring art in as a focal point," said Anderson.

The coffeehouse features art exhibits celebrated with an opening, whenever an exhibit changes. There are open mike nights and Friday Night Frolics, which feature musical entertainment.

The 1990s version of a coffeehouse, a long way off from the 16th century Turkish coffeehouses, which inspired the first European coffeehouses of Venice and Genoa, has come to Lake County with a twist the Venetians could never have envisioned in their coffeehouses. "Java Joes," the nation's largest cybercafe, according to its owner Steven Horowitz, just opened. Horowitz plans to franchise his business with 40 outlets initially, across the country.

A cybercafe doesn't really differ drastically from other coffeehouses, other than an added element of activity, using the internet. Customers may use the computers in the coffeehouse to play games, access the internet or use any of the 600 applications that are available on the machines.

The cafe is located in a strip mall at the intersection of Routes 45 and 120, near the College of Lake County and one door down from Lake County Branch Court.

Computer time is sold through a debit card system. Horowitz is hoping the attorneys from the courthouse will come in to use the internet to access West Law database and the students will flock to the coffeehouse to work and socialize. He explained the coffeehouse will allow children 10-years-old and over to be unattended.

With the computer time paid on a debit card system and the adult oriented sites blocked, Horowitz believes his cybercafe is also the perfect place for kids to hang out. The debit cards may also be used to purchase food at Java Joe's.

Java Joes differs from many coffeehouses in the high tech aspect and the contemporary decor, but it does feature many of the attractions that people flock to coffeehouses for.

It has an extensive line of coffee-related products. There are movie nights, singles nights, computer classes and entertainment. Horowitz said the board games he bought when they first opened, and the computers weren't hooked up, were so popular he's keeping them available for customers. He even has a living room lounge complete with a big screen television and bean bag chairs.

Horowitz does think the cybercafe is a trend, but not a threat to other establishments.

"There are probably about 10 coffeehouses in a 10-mile radius. They're all small and all going after a different market," he explained.

He believes "Colette's internet cafe," in Mundelein isn't in competition with him either, because it's a small neighborhood type of place. In fact, he consulted with Colette's owner when preparing his business and others in Grayslake about the coffeehouse business.

"I went to a lot of other cafes and asked for help," he said. The bakery items at his cafe will actually come from Something's Brewing, a popular bakery and cafe in downtown Grayslake.

Something's Brewing proprietor Linda Scholz opened the first coffeehouse in Grayslake, which now has five coffee houses including one drive-through establishment.

Scholz initially started as a bakery and coffee business but has since diversified to include a wholesale and retail chocolate business and even supplied chocolate to Six Flag's Great America this past summer. She makes gift baskets, sells gourmet items, features a full menu of sandwiches and soups served day and evening; she operates a deli catering service and opened an ice cream counter.

"To me competition is good because it forced me to do other things. If I only did coffee, I'd be sitting here all day twiddling my thumbs."

"When Center Street Market first opened I figured they're there and won't go away so you might as well feed off each other," she said. "That's why I don't mind wholesaling to Java Joes."

A different type of crowd flocks to a coffeehouse on Grand Avenue in Lindenhurst. Jam 'n' Java, a non-denominational Christian coffeehouse attracts all ages, but is very family oriented. Manager Chris Zoepfel books nationally known Christian music acts, local acts; there are pool tables, games and cards, and frequent speakers.

Chain of Lakes Community Bible Church is the primary underwriter of the coffeehouse. Zoepfel, his sound man and coffee bar manager, are assisted in their mission by volunteers.

Most coffeehouses today offer much more than a cup of coffee. Many sell products and most have food or baked goods for sale. The lines between restaurants and coffeehouses are blurring as many bakery type establishments have ventured into the gourmet coffee realm. Watson said this is definitely the trend.

"You can't just offer drinks. You have to offer specialty items and food. Nowadays you can get a latte at the gas station or White Hen," she said.

New policy allows parents in OR with children

Lake Forest Hospital has been making the anesthesia process less traumatic for children even before it was "law." A new regulatory action, approved earlier this year by the state licensing board for hospitals, now guarantees parents the opportunity to be present in the operating room (OR) during anesthesia when their children require surgery or other tests that call for children to be perfectly still.

"Because we try to be on the cutting edge, LFH has been on the forefront of this new policy. We've been allowing some parents in the OR during anesthesia for some time now and have found that in most cases it really helps comfort the child," said Deb Belasco, RN, pediatric clinician. "Of course, parents are educated on what to expect and prepared for what will happen next so there are no surprises."

The idea to allow parents in the OR at LFH came from anesthesiologists' sedation experiences in the Radiology department. Since there are times when children need anesthesia for MRIs or other radiologic tests, parents were allowed to be with their children during the process. These positive experiences led the Anesthesiology department to expand the practice to the OR.

In most cases, the child sits in the parent's lap while breathing the pleasant, fruity-smelling anesthetic. Spray flavors for the masks are also available and taste like cherry, grape or bubble gum flavors. Before parents are allowed in the OR, they must sign a written consent form. After the anesthesia is administered, parents are asked to move to the waiting area until the procedure is over.

Belasco says that parents are questioned before surgery to discover more about their child. "If the child is uncooperative with the doctor or hasn't had pleasant experiences in the past, parents are encouraged to be with them. If the parent is anxious or nervous, discretion is used as to whether or not they should be in the OR, since the child has a tendency to act that way too."

Cynthia Geissberger of Libertyville, took LFH up on its offer to accompany her daughter, Alaina, into the OR before Alaina had some minor surgery. "I was glad to be able to look at her and have her see me before she went to sleep," she said. "Alaina was very cooperative and let me put the mask over her face without a problem."

"The Anesthesia department at LFH is very progressive with updating and making the anesthesia experience as pleasant and nondisruptive as possible," noted Anesthesiology department chairman Dr. Aristedie Diveris. "For example, we have revised the age-old postulate of 'nothing to eat or drink after midnight.' We now allow, depending on the time of surgery, clear liquids to be consumed up to four hours prior to surgery. However, parents should still consult the pre-admission center (PAC) for details pertaining to pre-op fasting guideline."

Dr. Leslie Block, otolaryngologist and LFH medical staff president, was the first physician to experience his patient having their parent present in the OR and was pleased with the results. "In most cases, when a parent desires to be in the OR with their child it benefits both the child and the anesthesiologist. But, it's not for everyone and can be difficult for the apprehensive or nervous parent who should not feel obligated to accompany their child if they are uncomfortable."

NICASA honors Kemper top volunteers

The Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA) has presented its 1997 Corporate Award to Kemper Insurance Companies.

The not-for-profit agency also honored top volunteers and presented three Partner Awards during its annual volunteer appreciation dinner at Lambs Farm, Libertyville.

NICASA Board President Henry A. Weishaar, vice president of human resources for Abbott Laboratories' Hospital Products Division, praised Kemper for its longtime support of the agency's programs to prevent and treat alcohol and other drug abuse.

He announced that the Long Grove-based company "is once again demonstrating its commitment to NICASA through a $200,000 donation to our capital campaign." Kemper's contribution to the $1.16 million campaign will be made over five years.

Weishaar also cited Kemper for providing the design, photography and printing of the agency's annual reports for several years. In addition, volunteers from Kemper have participated in numerous facility improvement projects.

He paid tribute to James S. (Kim) Kemper, III, for chairing NICASA's board for several years. "The agency has benefited from Kim's leadership skills and his compassion for others."

Weishaar also praised Kim Kemper's father, James S. Kemper, Jr., who has made numerous financial contributions to NICASA. A pioneer in developing employee assistance programs, he was the first recipient of NICASA's James S. Kemper, Jr., Humanitarian Award.

"We are grateful to be a part of the NICASA family," Kim Kemper said in receiving the Corporate Award on behalf of the company. Of the $200,000 donation to NICASA, Kemper said, "I know the money is going to be well spent."

NICASA Partner Awards were presented to individuals who had a significant impact on the agency in 1997. They include:

- State Sen. Terry Link, who directed a bipartisan effort that resulted in a special appropriation from the Illinois Legislature to continue the operation of the Women and Children's Center in North Chicago.

- Jan Zobus, a longtime legislative aide to State Sen. William Peterson. She was praised by Judy H. Fried, executive director, for her advocacy on behalf of the agency. Fried said she is always on call and always willing to go the extra mile to help NICASA's staff, program and clients.

- Kelly Maloney, executive assistant to Weishaar at Abbott. Fried said she is a great supporter of all of NICASA's programs, and has taken a special interest in the Women and Children's Center. She organized a catered luncheon for a recent graduation of three clients and has undertaken numerous other volunteer projects.

Volunteer award recipients include:

- Sarah Catterson, divisional vice president for corporate purchasing at Abbott, is winner of the President's Award. Co-president of the Women's Board of NICASA and a member of NICASA's Board of Directors, Catterson was praised for generating considerable financial support through her leadership of the agency's special events, including the golf outing and Angel Ball holiday dinner dance. She is chairing NICASA's capital campaign.

- Dan Morrissey, of Abbott's corporate purchasing staff, was named NICASA's Volunteer of the Year. A member of several committees for NICASA's annual charity golf invitations, he chaired this year's event which raised more than $58,000. Morrissey has also been active in a variety of facility improvement projects at NICASA.

- Ray Millington, a Motorola executive and treasurer of NICASA's board, is the recipient of the Board of Director's Award. Millington directed the agency's information systems planning group.

He provided Motorola staff for the committee that spent more than a year determining the agency's information needs and advocated for the donation of major equipment for implementation of the information systems plan.

Millington also facilitated contributions from Motorola for all of the agency's special events, as well as a corporate donation to NICASA's capital campaign. He also played a major role in the rapid expansion of NICASA's Parent Project at Motorola.

Christmas Seals celebrates 90th anniversary

This holiday season, the American Lung Assn. invites all to an ultra cool celebration at <http://christmasseals.org>. That's where the American Lung Assn. is celebrating 90 years of fighting lung disease through donations to Christmas Seals—colorful decorative stamps that seal letters and packages during the holiday season.

The original Christmas Seals were created in 1907 by Emily Bissell to raise funds for a tuberculosis sanatorium. This year marks the 90th anniversary as an American holiday tradition and their second year as a one-of-a-kind internet phenomenon. Last year, the Christmas Seals site won seven awards and hosted more than 160,000 visitors making it one of the most popular holiday websites of the season.

This year's celebratory site features a brand new design and offers historical information as well as an opportunity to make donations online for the American Lung Assn.'s fight against lung disease such as asthma, emphysema and lung cancer.

"Asthma is on the rise and, through our Christmas Seals web page, we're inviting a whole new generation of Americans to do something about it," say Denise Myles, Ph.D., president of the American Lung Assn. of Illinois.

Community to benefit from $2 million gift to two local hospitals

Two independent Lake County hospitals have received over $2 million from an anonymous Waukegan benefactor in the names of George and Marie Hackbush.

In a joint announcement, The Condell Health Care Foundation, Libertyville, and Victory Memorial Hospital, Waukegan acknowledged receipt of equal donations of $1.2 million from the gift of negotiable stocks, the single largest donation from a private donor in the history of either organization.

Long-time residents of Lake County, the Hackbushes turned to Condell Medical Center and Victory Memorial Hospital for care several times over the years.

This gift recognizes the value independent community hospitals provide to the residents of Lake County. In their organizations, Condell and Victory bring together talented physicians, caring nurses, skilled technicians, and advanced technology as well as wealth of healthcare resources like rehabilitation and fitness programs, informational seminars, screenings, and home health services to care for the community.

"While we appreciate donations of any size," says Tim Harrington, president of Victory Memorial Hospital, "a gift of this magnitude underlines the trust our communities place in us to provide compassionate, quality care in their time of need."

"Even though our hospitals were given this gift, it is members of our community who will be the ultimate beneficiaries. They will benefit from the enhancement of programs and services made possible by this donation," says Harrington.

Eugene Pritchard, president of Condell Medical Center, voiced his appreciation of the generous gift in the names of George and Marie Hackbush stating, "We are proud and pleased to know that we made a difference in the lives of George and Marie Hackbush and are extremely grateful for this extraordinary donation. The most heartwarming aspect of this gift is that they appreciated our efforts and want to further them with this contribution."

Both Victory and Condell provide a broad range of comprehensive medical care and community health services.

AARP opens new Illinois state office

The American Association of Retired Persons officially opened its new Illinois State Office and Information Center at 222 N. LaSalle, choosing downtown Chicago as the site from which to serve its 1.6 million Illinois members. Of those members, 1.06 million live in the City of Chicago and its suburbs.

The Information Center offers not only information on AARP and its memberships services, but information on many topics of interest to senior citizens. The center is staffed by trained AARP-volunteers, who know and understand the issues of aging.

"We want people to think of our Information Center as the first place to look for the last word on aging," said Carole Aston, Illinois state representative. "In our location, we see not only retired seniors, but younger working people who are planning their own retirement, or who need information for their aging parents. We're here to help anyone who needs information on aging."

In addition to AARP publications on topics ranging from grandparenting to independent living, the Center also has a video library and many reference books and guides. Much of the information has been translated into Spanish.

The Center also offers seminars on topics like Social Security benefits, Medicare, managed care, money management and telemarketing fraud.

The Center is opened from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily. For further information, call (312)372-2277.

Churchill honored by long-term care association

State Rep. Robert Churchill (R-Antioch) was named Outstanding Legislator of the Year by Illinois Health Care Assn. (IHCA) at IHCA's annual convention in Peoria.

According to Executive Director William L. Kempiners, Churchill was chosen because he was instrumental in negotiating one of the nation's first and most comprehensive Health Care Worker Background Check Acts.

Since he introduced and passed this important legislation in 1995, Churchill has continued to work with IHCA to fine-tune the Act to protect residents of the state's nursing homes and other health care settings from coming in contact with employees with serious criminal backgrounds.

Churchill was first elected in 1982, and currently serves as Deputy Republican Leader in the House of Representatives.

IHCA is the oldest and largest long-term care association in Illinois, representing more than 465 member facilities statewide. Since 1950, IHCA has been a leading force in the long-term care industry providing legislative representation, continuing educational opportunities, and a variety of other services for its member facilities. Members include nursing homes and residences and services for developmentally disabled adults and severely disabled children.

WINTER HOME & HEARTH

Ornamental grasses create interesting winter landscapes

A decade or so ago ornamental grasses were considered nothing more than weeds. No one really considered them proper garden plants. Grasses are quite eye catching. I've always thought them to be quite grand. Their bold textures, many shades of color, and the way they sway with the wind, fascinates me. They are quite unusual and beautiful in their own uniqueness.

In December, and the winter months to follow, when most of the perennials have been reduced to spindly, broken stalks and mushy, disintegrating mounds, ornamental grasses dance in the wind and wave their airy seed heads proud as flags. Their tawny colors add a golden glow of warmth to the season's monotonous monochromes. Their striking winter presence is all the more reason to use grasses in the garden.

Ornamental grasses also give life to the winter garden by creating a natural environment that brings wildlife into the yard. The food, shelter, and windbreak they provide attract birds and small animals. Such as wrens, chickadees, and cardinals that perch in the feathery grass flowers, dining safely on seeds in the shelter of the grassy foliage. Rabbits are usually not welcome in the summer months, munching on veggies and such, but they, too, find food and shelter in the clumps of grasses.

Grasses are quite remarkably adaptable garden plants. There are perennial and annual varieties, but the perennial varieties are the ones that stand up to winter. Perennial grasses look good almost anywhere, particularly when planted en masse. Singly or in groups, they add surprising visual impact to beds and borders and can work wonders as screens for unsightly sheds or as a soft, billowy counterpoint to a tall building.

For a colorful, all-season ornamental grass, it is hard to beat blue oat grass (Helictotrichon sempervirens). It is stunning as a single specimen and in groupings, and it mixes well with almost any perennial or shrub, particularly paired with leatherleaf sedge. The blue foliage is always a standout in the winter garden, lending color to otherwise barren landscapes. Blue oat grass grows to 2 to 3 feet high. It also flowers in late May. Blue oat grass is hardy in Zones 4 to 8 (-30F to 10F) grows well in most soils, and prefers full sun. It will stand light shade, but struggles in deep shade.

Fountain grass is gorgeous in summer, crowned with purplish-pink seed heads. It is most effective in masses, and works well when mixed with sedum "Autumn Joy" to create plant combinations with long-season interest. Fountain grass thrives in Zones 5 to 9.

Most grasses require cutting back in very late winter, if they die back, cut them back. Easy to remember! Even in winter, grasses remind me of the spring to come.

Peace!

Be sure to prepare furnace now for long winter months

Now that the coats and mittens are out, it's time to make sure your furnace is prepared for winter, too. The best way to ensure that your heating system will be ready to beat the winter chill is to have it checked every year.

Contact a qualified heating contractor to keep your furnace working safely and efficiently, and check for the following problems:

- Rusted or broken piping could cause combustion problems for your furnace. Have them replaced and have your system checked by a qualified contractor.

- To keep your furnace running efficiently, clean or replace air filters at least three times during the heating season.

- Make sure burner flames are blue and steady. A yellowish or distorted flame could be a sign of improper furnace operation.

- If the air around your furnace is stale, humid, and/or there is soot on your furnace, there may be a combustion problem. Contact a qualified contractor immediately.

Carbon monoxide (CO) is a tasteless, colorless, odorless gas that is formed when any fossil fuel is not burned completely. Overexposure to CO causes CO poisoning, which can lead to serious illness or death. Fuels that produce CO include coal, charcoal, gasoline, natural gas, propane, wood or oil. The symptoms of CO poisoning are flu-like and include headaches, dizziness, nausea, coughing and an irregular heartbeat. Victims may appear pale, but then develop a cherry red color on the lips and ear tips.

If you feel the symptoms of CO poisoning, leave your house and call 911 or the fire department for a neighbor's home.

Your furnace will turn off and on about 9,000 times this winter, keeping you warm and cozy.

With the weather we have in northern Illinois, is your furnace something you can afford to take for granted?

Protect trees now against winter damage

Winter is approaching soon. As much as we are worried about the bad weather ahead, we are also worried about our trees and shrubs, and hope that they will survive the snow, ice, winter cold and winter sun. The effect of winter conditions can be more severe on trees which are stressed. Even the salt used for de-icing streets and sidewalks is injurious to the health of the tree. There are several things homeowners can do to insure plants' survival or lessen damage.

The first protection you can offer for your trees is to site them in a good location depending on the annual weather. Certain areas in the home landscape have a different climatic condition from their surroundings. These areas, known as microclimates, should be understood and used for planting appropriate trees. A professional arborist can help you choose the best tree and the ideal location to plant the tree around your house.

In winter, the ground around the root system of the plant or tree freezes, stopping or slowing the circulation of water in the tree. This is a greater problem for evergreens. Since evergreens hold their leaves in the winter, they tend to absorb moisture from the leaves since the root system is frozen, which make the leaves dry and fall off. Winter winds also draw precious water out of the leaves. In order to avoid this, some evergreens are sprayed with an anti-desiccant (usually a wax-like substance) that holds moisture in the leaves.

On cold winter days, when the sun shines it heats up the bark of the tree to a temperature which stimulates cellular activity. As soon as the sun's rays are blocked, the bark temperature drops quickly killing the active tissues. This causes "sun scald," the symptoms of which are elongated, sunken, dried or cracked areas of dead bark. This can be prevented by wrapping the trunk with a commercial tree wrap, plastic tree guard or light colored material which reflects the sun and reduces the temperature changes in the bark.

Snow and ice can break branches and topple the entire tree. Pruning your tree before winter storms move in make it better able to carry the extra weight of ice and snow. Branches can be thinned to reduce their surface area and wind resistance. Some multi-stemmed trees and shrubs can be cabled or wired together so that they do not lean outwards, and the extra weight can be shared by all the stems. It is best to hire a professional arborist for selective thinning or cabling.

Mulch around the tree acts as insulation between the root system and the outside climate. This helps retain moisture in the root system and reduce the fluctuation of soil temperature. Make sure that the ground isn't frozen and has enough moisture before you add the mulch, and make sure that no more than 2 to 4 inches of an organic matter like wood chips is used.

If you are unsure on how to protect your trees this winter, consult a professional arborist who can advise you on the best ways to preserve your trees. You can find a NAA-member arborist close to you by calling the National Arborist Association, 1 (800) 733-2622, or by a zip code search on the NAA's web site: <http://www.natlarb.com>.

Consumers warm up to natural gas fireplaces

Natural gas fireplace equipment is gaining in popularity, as consumers seek greater convenience and an alternative to the environmental and health effects associated with wood-burning fireplaces and stoves.

Natural gas fireplaces resemble wood-burning fireplaces, but include ceramic logs that give the appearance of burning wood when surrounded by flames fed by a gas jet. No chimney or existing fireplace is needed, because natural gas fireplaces can be vented directly through an outside wall.

Many consumers prefer natural gas fireplaces because of the convenience—no wood to chop and stack, no ashes to clean and no smoldering cinders at bedtime.

In an effort to improve air quality and assist individuals with respiratory problems, many communities ban or limit the use of wood-burning fireplaces and woodstoves. These wood-burning units are one of the largest sources of the tiny "particulates" that aggravate breathing problems, especially in children, and cause visible air pollution, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

Sales of natural gas hearth products are growing 20 to 35 percent each year, far more than the modest 5 percent pace of the fireplace market as a whole, according to the Gas Research Institute. More than one of every four new fireplaces burns natural gas because builders and consumers increasingly choose gas hearth products over traditional wood-burning fireplaces.

Holidays fuel maid service need—tips on hiring help

Dual-income families, no free time and a dirty home, combined with the holiday season, make a recipe for maid service help. According to American Demographics magazine, more than 9.4 million households hire maid services for home cleaning and this number is expected to grow to 10 million households by the year 2000.

However, as with all businesses, some are better than others. It is important to know how to protect your home, its assets, and yourself before you hire just anyone to clean.

"Customers want a service they can trust," said Mary Boyer, owner of The Maids serving Evanston, Wilmette, Winnetka, Glenview, Northfield, Northbrook, Kenilworth and Glenview. "We go to great lengths to ensure our customers that they can trust us. We screen employees during the interview process; do thorough background checks; use a four-person supervised cleaning team, and keep customers' keys computer coded."

The Maids' supervised, uniformed and professionally trained, four-person teams arrive in a yellow company car and clean each home following a rigorous 22-step process. All team members are insured and bonded; all employment taxes are paid; and all of The Maids' work is backed by a satisfaction guarantee.

The Maids provide the following tips for homeowners to follow before hiring a maid service:

- Bonding: Make sure the company is bonded. Should a theft occur, you need to be protected. Some companies, if they are bonded at all, protect only themselves, not the consumer.

- Insurance: Make sure the company is insured. If a maid slips and falls while cleaning the shower, your home owner's policy might not cover the incident.

- References: Make sure the company is reliable. Ask for references and a work history.

- Screening and hiring: Ask if employees' references are checked and if their residence status is confirmed. A professional company will screen each employee for honesty and dependability.

- Cleaning products and equipment: Some independent housekeepers as well as some services expect you to supply all cleaning products and equipment.

Check out what's included with your house cleaning.

- Guarantee: Make sure the service is backed by a written satisfaction guarantee.

- Taxes: Make sure you don't break any tax laws. If you pay a housekeeper or maid at least $1,000 per year, the law requires you to pay social security and other taxes on that person.

Most maid service companies withhold taxes for their employees, but check to make sure.

For more information about household employee taxes, call the Internal Revenue Service at 1(800)829-1040.

Keep memories alive all year long with a loving gift

The holidays are just around the corner, and you haven't finished shopping yet. You still have to get something for mom and dad.

You want it to be something unique—something that shows how much you care.

It's not easy.

Perfume? That won't last long.

A tie? Ditto.

A Cadillac? That would be nice.

Or, you could give them "Memories For My Loved Ones."

Now, here's something that will still be around 100 years from now.

That's worth thinking about. You see, in 2047 (50 years from now), your mom and dad probably will be forgotten.

Then again, maybe not. If you give them "Memories For My Loved Ones," a book of 1,175 questions everyone has about his or her family, their great-grandchildren could be curled up on the sofa 50 years from now reading their life story.

Now, there's a nice thought.

What kind of questions are in this unique book?

Questions like:

"What did you want to be when you grew up?"

"How long did it take to travel 30 miles when you were a child?"

"How much did your first job pay?"

"How much did your first car cost?"

"What's the worst job you ever had?"

"Where were you when John Kennedy was shot?"

All you have to do is give this book of questions to your mom and dad, and ask them to fill it out. When they give it back to you, you can keep it as a family treasure forever.

It will bring back a lot of memories for you, and your grandchildren probably will get a hoot out of some of the answers. If you look really close, you'll probably even see them brush away a tear now and again.

The people you give this book to will appreciate it more than any gift they'll receive this year—and maybe ever. Just knowing that you want to learn about their life will make them feel warm deep down. It's a gift that will be remembered the rest of their lives.

You can't buy "Memories For My Loved Ones" in bookstores, because each book is handmade when an order is placed. Each is carefully bound and tied with a silk ribbon, giving it the look of a family heirloom. You can even have mom or dad's name custom-printed in silver on the elegant burgundy cover free of charge.

You can order your personalized copy for $24.95, plus $4.50 shipping and handling. Additional copies can be ordered for $19.95 each.

The book is backed by an unconditional satisfaction guarantee.

To order, write to Pathway Publishing Inc., 5760 40th Street, Suite B, Lubbock, TX 79407, or call toll free 1-800-687-7700.

Appearances can be deceiving with off-the-rack reading glasses

These days consumers can buy take-home tests and devices to check for high blood pressure, diabetes and colon cancer. They can also pick reading glasses off the rack to try to solve their own vision problems. But like other do-it-yourself diagnostic aids, off-the-rack reading glasses can cause a person to miss or misdiagnose a health problem, says the American Optometric Association.

Off-the-rack reading glasses are simply magnifying lenses mounted in frames. They generally come in about 10 different powers and the consumer tries them on until he finds a pair that permits easy reading.

These glasses are relatively inexpensive. But there is a risk in buying them without first getting a thorough eye examination to detect eye disease and determine the exact cause of seeing difficulties. Even among adults, blurred vision cannot always be attributed to the natural effects of aging.

Other disadvantages of these glasses are:

- The magnification of both lenses is the same.

Most people, however, need a different lens prescription for each eye.

- They have no correction for astigmatism, a common vision problem causing blurred vision.

- They can cause headaches, tired eyes or other eyestrain symptoms because the wearer's line of vision may not correspond to the optical center of the lenses.

- They may seem fine when worn for a minute or two in the store but when used for an hour or more to concentrate on reading, needlework or other close work, they may prove unsatisfactory.

By having a thorough optometric exam each year, consumers can rule out or obtain treatment for an eye health problem that may be interfering with their vision, and prescription lenses can be custom-ground to the wearer's exact vision needs, as determined by the optometrist.

Although they cost more than over-the-counter glasses, prescription lenses provide better and more comfortable vision.

Several secrets to make yourself look years younger

The secret to eternal youth is something that has fascinated scientists and science fiction writers for years. As yet, no one has found the answer, but certainly today's woman has a far better chance of living longer, staying healthy and keeping her looks than her great grandmother did.

Here are some of the ways you can make the most of the rest of your life, whatever your age:

1. Eat a healthy diet. This gives your body the fuel it needs to function properly—make sure it includes whole-grain breads, fresh fruit and cereals. Cut down on fats and sugars.

- A good eating pattern should enable you to keep your weight fairly stable.

2. Keep yourself moving! Don't fall into the trap of saying "I'm getting older, so I've got to slow down."

A brisk daily walk does wonders for your general well-being. Alternatively, take up a new sport or catch up on one you enjoyed a few years ago.

3. Exercise the mind as well as the body. Join a class at your local community college.

4. Look after your skin. The main cause of wrinkling and age spots is sun damage, so always use a good sunscreen.

Adopt a good basic skin care routine of cleanse, tone and moisturize. Remember that skin changes as you get older; just because you had greasy skin in your teens, it doesn't mean you have greasy skin now.

5. Don't smoke, and only drink alcohol in moderation.

6. Don't get stuck in a hair and makeup rut. The looks that suited you 10 years ago are not necessarily the most flattering now.

Hess wants clerk's office back

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned and in the game of politics, Linda Januzi Hess says she has been blamed for the deficiencies of the county clerk's office in the last four years.

Her announcement that's "she's back" as the Democratic candidate for the office, may make for the most intense campaign yet for the county job.

She'll square off against her successor Republican Willard Rooks Helander, who broke the Democratic strong hold on the office in 1994.

Hess chose not to run four years ago.

"I left my heart in the Lake County Clerk's office," said Hess. "I've learned a lot about myself during the last three years. I found my role in the private sector not as satisfying as the public sector. I have missed the hustle and bustle of public life."

Hess said she has been observing the office during the past three years and "it is running at a great deficit."

"The Clerk's office needs a strong leader, a leader who is connected to the people," Hess said. "I'll been running on my 12 years of experience in the office."

Hess, who is to be married to

Rick Foley this weekend, declined to discuss the particulars of her campaign platform at the Monday press conference, but said she will be pounding the streets daily after the first of the year to get her message out to voters.

"The current clerk blames my office for what has gone wrong in her office," Hess said. "What I can tell you is that I left the office with an exemplary record."

Hess is currently employed by CIGNA Financial Advisors helping small business owners and professionals develop successful strategies for their financial security, including business succession, estate preservation, investments and retirement income solutions.

CIGNA honored Hess in January with its Leadership of the Year Award.

She held the county clerk's post from 1982-1994.

Lake County Democratic Party Chairman Terry Link makes the official announcement of the candidacy of Linda Januzi Hess, left, for county clerk and Lynda Paul, right, for county treasurer. The announcements were made Monday at the Waukegan Ramada Inn.

Former Abbott accountant Democrats' choice

Newcomer Lynda Paul seeks county treasurer's seat

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

Lynda Paul has always been a trailblazer. The 32-year-old native of Hammond, Ind., and former lead accountant for Abbott Laboratories' Corporate Financial Reporting department, is the Democratic candidate for county treasurer.

"What I offer to the people of Lake County is fresh, innovative solutions to problems," Paul said. "I will pro-actively and purposefully position the Treasurer's office for the new millennium. I am looking forward to a campaign that will focus on issues and qualifications needed to tackle those issues."

Paul said she is a person who has received many blessings, the most significant of which being that her mother never told her "you can't do that."

"And because I heard that as a child, I grew up believing all things are possible and doable; this has helped me to develop a can-do attitude," the Waukegan resident said.

Paul is the fifth child of eight children born to a steel worker and a "domestic goddess."

Clarence and Lola Collins. She graduated from Hammond High School in 1983 receiving numerous awards and honors including the first female in school history to be named most valuable athlete. She also excelled in debate and was student council president.

She graduated with honors from Ball State University in 1987 with an undergraduate degree in Corporate Finance, with an emphasis in International Business. She also has a minor in French.

Upon graduation she accepted a job at Abbott Laboratories in International Finance Operations and was divisional financial coordinator for Abbott's 50 international affiliates, with global responsibilities.

"I bring with me years of technological savoir-faire and excellent people and office management skills," Paul said.

For the last 10 years, Paul has made a career of managing people's money. She is employed by Metropolitan Life. She is a certified public accountant with a masters degree in finance and marketing.

She has served on the board of the Lake County Urban League and is currently on the Lake and McHenry Counties YMCA Finance and Business Committee.

"I will become the taxpayer advocate to ensure people are aware of the various dealings regarding taxes and taxation," Paul said.

She and her husband, Clifton Paul, have been married for 12 years and have three boys. Clifton Paul is a patrol officer with the City of Buffalo Grove and a former Navy man.

Tollway baby born just in time for turkey

By ELIZABETH EAKEN
Staff Reporter

Mom, Dad where did I come from?

When Kyle Morgan Antanaitis asks this question in about 10 years, he will get a very unusual reply.

John Antanaitis welcomed his son into the world at the Waukegan Toll Plaza at precisely 11:51 p.m., Monday, Nov. 24. He is now saying little Kyle Morgan's nickname will be Waukegan.

Kyle and his mother Christine are doing fine and were expected to be released from Condell Medical Center Wednesday, Nov. 26, just in time for a Thanksgiving celebration.

The Antanaitis family of Kenosha, Wis. were rushing to Condell Medical Center in Libertyville, when they realized they weren't going to make it and pulled over at the toll plaza in Wadsworth. By the time Newport Fire Department paramedics arrived on the scene, John had delivered his son.

Kyle and his mother were both in perfect condition, according to Paramedic Jeff Rudolph, of Newport.

"When we arrived the parents were very relaxed and mom was in the reclining position in the seat and was very comfortable. We found the baby under a pile of blankets. He was very pink, there was no crying and he was a perfect little baby," Rudolph said.

Rudolph said the experience wasn't too bewildering for him since his wife, Michelle, just gave birth to their daughter Allyson five weeks ago.

Rudolph said this isn't the first baby delivered at the plaza. It happens occasionally with people pulling over because they're able to radio for help. "This was their second child. At about 10:30 she started having contractions and wanted to be sure they waited long enough," Rudolph related.

After the paramedics arrived, the family was transported to Condell. The hospital has been inundated with media asking questions, making Kyle an instant celebrity.

According to Condell spokesperson Ina Albert, Kyle weighs 7 pounds 3 ounces and is 19 and a quarter inches long.

John spoke to reporters at a press conference Tuesday. Albert said he told them he was nervous during the delivery, but he had seen births in the movies and knew it had to be done. He was assisted by an employee of the toll plaza and a state trooper.

Wadsworth home features $100 price tag

House auction raising funds for LaCASA

The Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault will benefit from the sale of a $265,000 dream home in Wadsworth.

LaCASA's committee is selling $100 chances for a one-in-3,500 chance to own the Georgian style residence. Funds go towards LaCASA's capital improvement fund, which funds the new Gurnee Zaacharias Center.

"It is a real important fund-raiser. We are just under $50,000 for a challenge Kretschke grant. If we reach $1.2 million, they will give us $275,000 to top it off," Ann Subry of LaCASA said.

The two-year old white home has four bedrooms, 2.1 baths on a full acre of land. Other features include a large kitchen with built-in appliances, a full basement and a 2.5 car garage.

Subry said response to open houses, held on weekends is going strong.

Those interested in buying $100 tickets may do so up until Dec. 17. The winner will be named Dec. 19, an early Christmas present for someone.

The house at 38011 N. Golf Road will be decorated for the Christmas season.

Businesses may participate by selling tickets.

Cambridge gains variances for 'Home of Millennium'

Cambridge Homes gained necessary variances for construction of its "Home of the Millennium" project in Gurnee.

The concept home will be built on a lot in Timberwoods subdivision. Variances for setback requirements won by a 4-2 vote village board approval for 13 setback changes. Timberwoods has 120 single-family home lots.

Cambridge also won annexation agreement amendment for its "cabana" option. It is considered a second habitable unit because it is not directly connected to the other habitable portions of the home.

Trustees Robert Amaden and Tracie Bullock voted against the variances.

The "Home of the Millennium" is a Chicago Home Builders Assn. recognition won by Cambridge. Its major change from traditional homes is the attached garage is located at the rear of the lot, an extended porch and a porte chere. The placement of the garage at the rear of the lot results in a deeper house.

"We are excited about the plan. It is an opportunity for us and Gurnee," Joe Safan, architect, said.

"It offers something not currently offered," Stephan George, vice president of operations for Cambridge Homes, said.

The size of the lot range in Timberwoods made it a perfect site, according to Cambridge.

"What bothers me is you want to put this on small lots," Trustee Robert Amaden, said.

Trustee Tom Chamberlain suggested and the board agreed that the setback variances should be communicated to other residents by Cambridge.

At the plan commission meetings, some residents stated objections. One said variances are an unfair approach and there are wetlands and drainage concerns. Another said the smaller lots would not fit and tree removal sparked audience views.

The original proposal was for 17 lots for variances, but the number was reduced to 13.

AT A GLANCE

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Christmas events begin

Wauconda—Once everyone in town has digested their Thanksgiving meal, Christmas activities will start in earnest. The village's annual Tree Lighting Ceremony will start at 6:30 p.m. at Memorial Park, located at the corner of Route 176 and Main Street in downtown Wauconda. The lighting takes place at 6:45 p.m., with fun with Santa Claus taking place at 7 p.m. at the Wauconda Park District Community Center, 600 N. Main St.

The Wauconda Moose Lodge is holding its annual Christmas Parade in Island Lake on Dec. 29 and in Wauconda on Dec. 30.

KOLD wants library downtown

Mundelein—A newly formed group of residents and business owners has asked Fremont Public Library officials to reevaluate their plans to move out of the downtown area.

Library trustees are already moving forward with plans to build a new facility on Midlothian Road near Mechanics Grove Elementary School on land that was donated from a developer.

However, the Keep Our Library Downtown group does not want that to happen, and is asking the board to look at other options. Board President Gary Gunther said that will only happen if someone comes up with another site that is downtown and economically available.

Girls give thanks on holiday

Island Lake—A group of second grade girls from Cotton Creek School who are members of Brownie Troop 496 are spending part of their Thanksgiving Day with the seniors of Sheltering Oaks Nursing Home.

The troop's 17 girls are scheduled to sing Christmas carols and exchange cards with the residents, said Rita Schneider, the troop leader.

The girls will provide a similar holiday program for the residents of the Care Center of Wauconda on Dec. 3.

YMCA offers Winter Camp Program

Lake Villa—Hastings Lake YMCA offers a winter resident youth program between Dec. 27 and 31 for youth and pre-teenagers 8 to 16 years old.

Mary Jo Boone, resident camp director, said that Hastings Lake YMCA is offering four days and nights of winter fun to energize a winter holiday program. "We offer tobogganing on our toboggan slides, swimming in our indoor pool, climbing on our Alpine Tower, fun indoor and outdoor group games, leather crafts, a dance, and more," said Boone.

Boone said that the program also offers two downhill ski trips. "Skiing is for all levels, beginners to advanced, and will include lessons, ski equipment, lift tickets and fun in the lodge."

The four day program is an exciting way for kids to spend time between holidays she said. "Call 356-4001 for a brochure and more information," Boone said.

Hastings Lake YMCA Resident Camp is celebrating 76 years of summer, resident camp fun. It is located at 21155 West Golden Road in Lake Villa.

Antioch Library Book Fair

Antioch—Books Etc. will host its first book fair for Antioch's library in cooperation with Antioch Library Friends on Dec. 11, 12, and 13.

All store merchandise at Books Etc., 901 Main Street, is part of the book fair offerings. Store owner Dale Perryman will donate 15% of the receipts to the Antioch Library.

The store is expected also to have an initial shipment of the new library coffee mugs for $5.

"Books are great Christmas gifts," said Nancy Brown of the library volunteer group Antioch Library Friends. She said that if people are thinking of buying books for gifts, this would be a good place to buy them and contribute to the library at the same time. She said that all the calendars, cards, children's books, maps and travel books, best sellers, writing paper, candles, periodicals, journals, and everything in the children's Chicken Soup series would be available for the sale.

"I'm bringing in some extra books," Perryman said of his plans for the Fair. He said that he has a very full store for the holiday season but new materials are always arriving. Perryman said that his store now has all of the books, craft ideas, and the activity series for the American Girl collection of dolls.

Thursday and Friday evenings the store is open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. The store is open Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Lake Villa Tree Tops in Victory

Lake Villa—Lake Villa created the most beautiful Christmas tree in the county this year. Victory Hospital Foundation gave the village a blue ribbon to honor the achievement.

The 54-inch artificial tree was created by volunteers from the village and people in the community to showcase the theme of "A Golden Village."

Lake Villa was one of 21 communities to decorate a tree for the 2nd annual 1997 Community Tree Competition at the 6th Annual Festival of Trees sponsored by the foundation. The foundation said the "elegantly detailed holiday tree featured miniature bird houses and delicately painted country scenes in a cloud of soft colors tinged with gold."

Village Clerk Alyce Brownlee said that the tree skirt was made with photographic reproductions ironed onto the fabric. These were scenes from around the community. The painted ornaments by Julie Bill showed local landmarks such as the train station and the Lake Villa United Methodist Church.

Depke may be third Dist. 7 candidate

Gurnee—The first day to file petitions for Lake County Board Dist. 7 might be one to mark on the political calendar.

It is Dec. 8, at the Lake County Clerk's office. At stake in the March primaries will be Republican and Democratic nominations next November.

Al Westerman is the incumbent, while Mark Ratfelders of Gurnee is the challenger. Another challenger, Shawn Depke of Waukegan, was being mentioned as Dec. 8 approaches.

If Depke, son of former Warren Twp. Supervisor Robert Depke, enters, it would be a third candidate for the four-year term. The district serves all of Warren and some of Waukegan Townships.

"I have not yet made an announcement. But I am talking with committee members, volunteers and friends," Depke said Monday.

Gurvey suspension handcuffs students

Round Lake—When Round Lake High School teacher Barry Gurvey was suspended after showing support for students challenging the rule against wearing hooded sweatshirts, Gurvey wasn't the only who lost out.

Jenny Veldhuizen, the high school Student Council president, made an impassioned plea to the school board to take into consideration the effects of Gurvey's suspension, not on Gurvey himself, but on the students who he touched.

"Right now, we're (the student council) stuck, we have nothing," said Veldhuizen. "Every teacher we talk to, to ask if they would sponsor the student council say it would be a stab in the back (to Gurvey)."

Charter school hearing held

Libertyville—The co-founders of the Liberty Hall Charter School answered questions posed by the Libertyville Elementary District 70 school board on Monday night.

Barbara Shafer, Tomi Schoeneman and Diane Grocki, were on hand Monday to present their case for the school which, if approved, would open next fall.

The district now has 30 days in which they are required by state law to render a decision on the proposal. They expect to do so at the Dec. 15 regular board meeting.

Grant awarded to CLC dispatcher training

The Illinois Law Enforcement Training and Standards Board (Police Training Board) announced the approval of a grant to fund an Emergency Medical Dispatch Training course through the Criminal Justice Institute/Public Service Institute of the College of Lake County.

This grant will allow local police and fire departments to have their dispatchers trained as Emergency Medical Dispatchers. This certification will prepare telecommunications operators to provide critical medical advice to residents while they are awaiting the arrival of paramedics or other emergency services.

According to the Board's Executive Director, Dr. Thomas J. Jurkanin, many local agencies lack the financial resources to provide training to law enforcement support personnel. The board has approved a total grant of $6,630 from their Traffic Service Training Project, which is funded through the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, Division of Traffic Safety. This is one of many ways the Board is able to contribute to the protection of Illinois citizens by facilitating professional advancement of police personnel.

Richard D. Schur, Director of Community Education at the College of Lake County oversees the Criminal Justice Institute. Schur stated that this grant will allow over 20 local dispatchers to receive this training at no cost. Schur said that the training will be conducted in mid-January, 1998, and that he will continue to seek other grant funds to ensure that all Lake County Agencies have an opportunity to train their personnel.

Contacts: Richard D. Schur, director, Community Education, College of Lake County, 543-2026. Dr. Thomas Jurkanin, executive director, Illinois Law Enforcement Training and Standards Board, (217) 782-4540.

Holiday patrols begin

Ill. State Police Dist. 02 in Elgin has begun its Holiday Emphasis Patrols. The first holiday is the Thanksgiving Weekend, followed by the week of Christmas, then ending with New Years Eve.

Dist. 02 will beef up its staffing in regards to patrol coverage on most major U.S. and state routes in DeKalb, DuPage, Kane, Lake and McHenry counties. Troopers will be heavily enforcing the following traffic laws; DUI, open alcohol, speeding, seatbelts and child restraints.

Dist. 02 will also be running special patrols in Lake County for a duration of four hours at a time emphasizing the above mentioned traffic laws. These patrols will occur on the following highways: U.S. 12, U.S. 41 and Ill. 120.

Day of Caring marks spirit of volunteerism; an early Thanksgiving

The season of caring, sharing and giving always starts early in Lake County, encapsulated in a notable day in fall. In just three years, Day of Caring has become the second most important project conducted by United Way of Lake County, second only to funds raised—a goal of $8 million this year—for local health and human service agencies.

In terms of visibility, Day of Caring is Lake's largest one-day community service project. This year the annual event swelled to more than 1,600 persons working on 121 service projects at 72 locations. Volunteers paint and repair, do landscaping and assist with children. Three homes belonging to low-income senior citizens in Waukegan Township were spruced up by volunteers released from their normal jobs by cooperating employers.

Douglas E. Weber, United Way president, said the volunteers and the work they did on a Friday this fall constitute "huge numbers." Day of Caring is more than symbolism. Total dollar value for the day's labor exceeded $150,000. One agency director described Day of Caring as "making wishes come true."

In Lake County, Day of Caring is a shining example that people don't think about giving just at Thanksgiving or the Christmas holidays.

Library overstated as key to downtown

Now that main street shopping and hometown conviviality are back in style, movements to revitalize downtown or create downtowns in suburban bedroom communities where they never existed are finding strong support.

Libertyville has attained a national reputation for rekindling main street interest. Lincolnshire is working with a developer to "create" an instant Disney-style downtown on Milwaukee Ave. With the support of a local bank, Lake Forest is expanding its venerable Market Square to capitalize on downtown ambience. Main street never really disappeared in Grayslake and Antioch, but leaders are working hard to insure economic vitality. Lake Zurich and Waukegan are working with a main street guru to spearhead downtown revitalization.

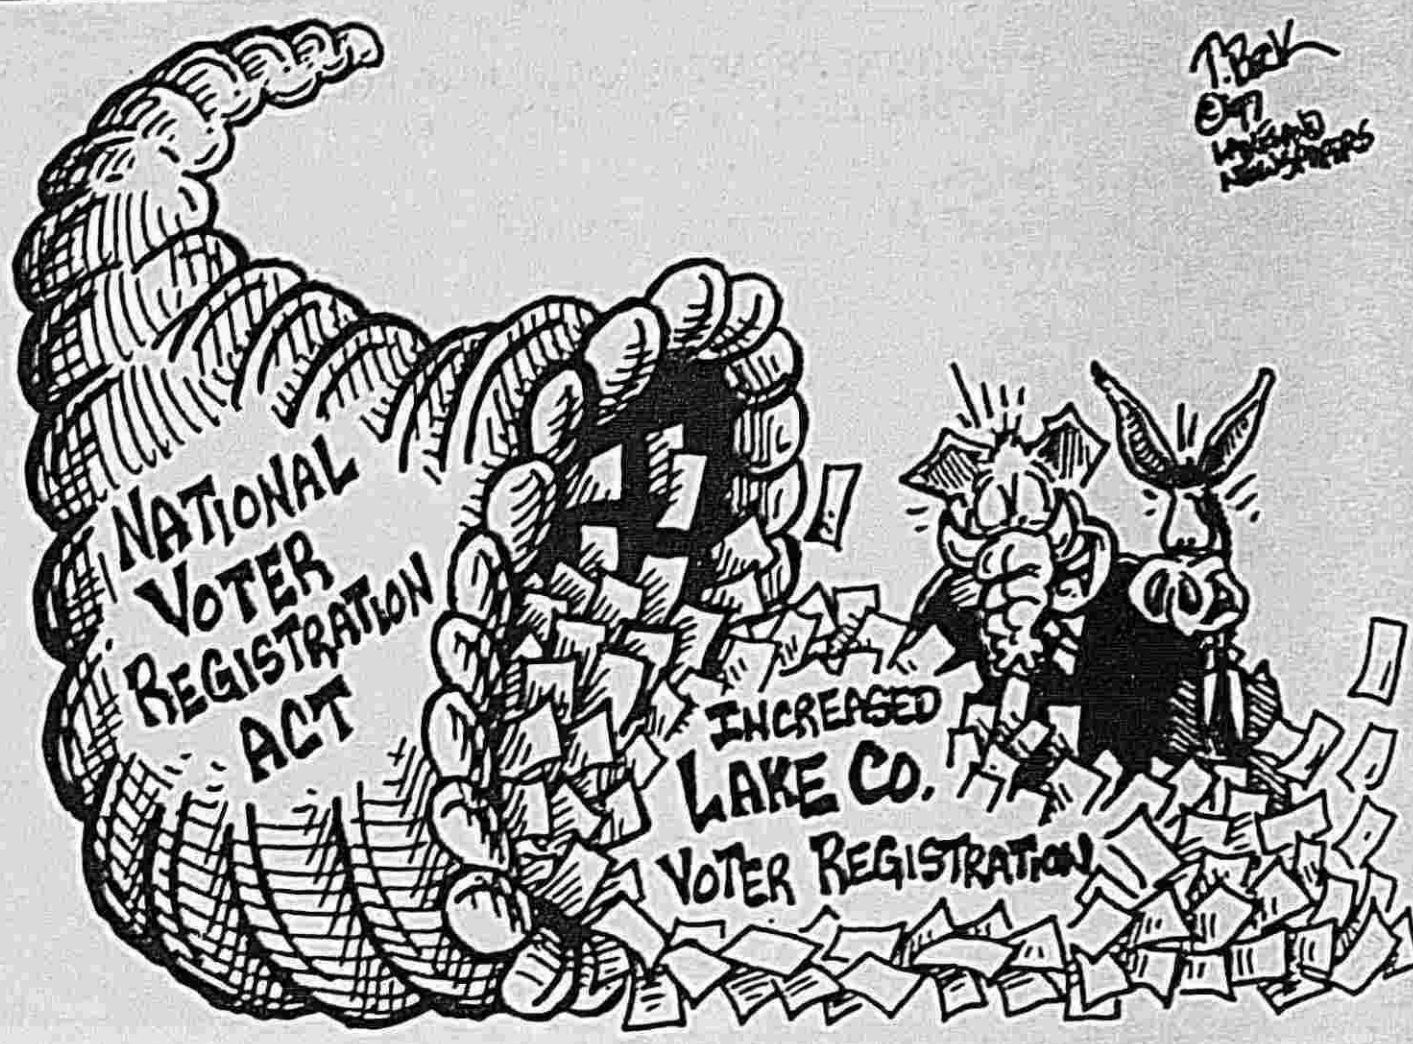

Nowhere is the downtown spirit running stronger than in Mundelein where Mundelein Pride, a not-for-profit group with partial village funding, has five years under its belt of a long range effort to create a downtown shopping presence in a locality surrounded by shopping centers.

Planners have created a pattern of improvements, including a park with benches, plantings, improved lighting and brick pavers, all designed to create an inviting, comfortable, hometown atmosphere. So far there's been only one obstacle encountered, but in the eyes of Mundelein Pride boosters, the hurdle is monumental.

The obstacle is Fremont Public Library's plan to relocate from its long-time cramped home on Lake St. (Rte. 45) to a spacious site on Midlothian Rd. Library trustees already have made the decision to relocate, but they are conducting a dialog on alternative sites, mainly for public relations purposes and to assuage hard feelings on the part of Mundelein Pride.

Location of the library ought to be a non-issue for main street proponents. Neighboring communities have experienced library relocations in recent years, Grayslake, Wauconda, Lake Zurich and Lake Villa to mention a few, without negative consequences to retail commerce or downtown vitality. We've always maintained that a library is not a downtown essential. Mundelein Pride is overstating the importance of the library as a key main street component and underestimating the strength of the main street philosophy.

With sound goals and enthusiasm, Mundelein Pride is well advised to drop concern about library relocation and roll up its sleeves. In reality, both Fremont Library and Mundelein Pride are making the right moves—for the right reasons.

VIEWPOINT

Fitzgerald attacking on wide political front

State Sen. Peter G. Fitzgerald is running for the U.S. Senate facing a split Illinois Republican party head-on.

The second term in the Illinois Senate has positioned himself as a GOP outsider even though he has garnered the early support of Senate Leader Pate Philip, the consummate Republican insider. Figure that one out and classify yourself a genius of Illinois politics.

Fitzgerald asserts that there is a division in politics today not between Republicans and Democrats or liberals and conservatives. The division is between "political insiders and the rest of us," he says. That line is sure to play well for independents and restive Republicans who bridle at the dictates of the GOP establishment. Makes no difference at this pre-primary point what Democrats think, but Fitzgerald has a message that should resonate with middle class Democrats—taking aim at political insiders, bureaucrats and special interests.

Does this theme sound familiar? You bet it does. Like an enchanter of 1996 when another GOP Assemblyman ripped the Republican establishment on the way to a U.S. Senate nomination, but got left out in the cold in the general election.

Fitzgerald already has a mark for conservatism on fiscal and social matters, and a record of taking on GOP fatcat favorites like insider loans, lucrative riverboat gambling licenses and sweetheart highway construction contracts.

As a U.S. Senate nominee, Fitzgerald could leave all these problems behind and turn to "big picture" issues like keeping health care standards up but costs in line, curbing welfare, restoring local school control, lowering taxes and strengthening families. No doubt he'll have something to say about defense and foreign affairs before too long. That's a long suit for habitants of the senate.

At this stage, the message is muddled. But that's not unusual when it's still sorting out time for the parties. Fitzgerald is right to face up at this point to the division in Republican ranks that plays out on a smaller scale in Lake County. There are two kinds of Republicans in Lake County, regulars and independents. Right now, Fitzgerald is casting his lot with the independents because the regulars will be lined up behind his opponent for the nomination.

If enough Republicans are looking for a "different kind of Republican" as Fitzgerald proclaims himself, he'll make a strong bid. It remains to be seen if Illinois electors in the whole are looking for a political outsider to serve them in the U.S. Senate.

'Rage' caged

In McHenry County, where pliability in the courts has been a byword for decades, it's the little things that count. Like nudging the bumper of the car in front of you.

No less than Metra Chairman Jeffrey Ladd now can attest that no encounter is too small to attract the attention of the the McHenry judicial system. Ladd, a Crystal Lake resident who maintains law offices in Chicago besides heading up Metra, is doing public service, was fined $250 and put on one year court supervision after found guilty of disorderly conduct. His crime? The front bumper of Ladd's 1996 Cadillac touched the rear bumper of a car driven by Christine McNalis while both were stalled in a traffic jam at the Crystal Lake Metra station last winter.

Ladd called the encounter a "tap." McNalis told police it definitely was a "bump," followed by a "shove" with a blaring horn. Prosecutor David Franks depicted McNalis as a victim of road rage. Judge Gordon Graham agreed. If McNalis was a victim of road rage, then Ladd is a victim of the new era of "prominence persecution."

New author

Just in time for holiday reading and giving are the World War II reminiscences of a Libertyville resident, Bill Maxey, compiled in a book with a catchy title, "Come with Me to a War." Bill served in Europe from D-Day to VE Day. Compiling his experiences with VII Corps took up the early years of his retirement.

One man's family

Pop and a few other oldsters could only standby in amazement and amusement at the antics of 11 tots (count 'em) on hand for the first birthday party for our grand-neice, Julia Matata. Pint-sized cousins and friends turned the family room into a three ring circus. The melee came off without any mishaps, but there were plenty of cake frosting spatters to clean up.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

'Never-say-die' Neal looking at Churchill seat

Armed with a new nickname and a replenished supply of self confidence, County Board Rep. Bob Neal (R-Wadsworth) could become a candidate for state representative at any moment.

In County Building corridors and conference rooms, it's "Bat Man" Bob, an outcome of Neal's outspoken ridicule of Forest Preserve aides to accommodate a colony of bats that had taken up residence at Lakewood Forest Preserve, Wauconda.

With filing time approaching (Dec. 8 to 15), the irrepressible Neal said he is in the process of "deciding." That means he's weighing the consequences of challenging the dictates of State Sen. Adeline Geokaris (R-Zion) and State Rep. Bob Churchill (R-Lake Villa) who already have anointed Antioch Supervisor Tim Osmond as their party's nominee.

Neal's entrance in the Republican primary would create an east vs. west scenario in GOP ranks in the north Lake County district. With his County Board experience and recent race for county-wide office, Neal would have a head-start in the name recognition department. But Osmond, who is a known quantity only in Antioch Township, feels he could close the gap in a hurry with the political armies of Geo-Karis and Churchill forces behind him.

Bright future

County Board Rep. Diana O'Kelly (R-Fremont) isn't phased by reports Colin McRae of Mundelein will try and regain the County Board seat he lost to O'Kelly in 1994. "I wasn't known then, but I am now. I've worked hard. I feel good about winning reelection," the independent Republican stated.

Neal: Batman cometh

O'Kelly: Not phased by rematch

Fences mended

Supporters of Congressman Phil Crane substantiate reports that the veteran Republican has given his blessings to the U.S. Senate bid being made by State Sen. Peter Fitzgerald (R-Palatine).

No one is happier about this than Fitzgerald's wife, who professed dismay when her husband, who learned a lot of his conservative philosophy from Crane, decided he wanted to challenge his mentor and friend four years ago. The result was an expensive lesson for Fitzgerald in the importance of experience and friendship in party ranks.

Nina Fitzgerald said at one time her husband and Crane were like a "father and son."

Uneasy visits

County Building employees admit to more than a little uneasiness at visits of the former County Board chairman, who tours the premises on almost a daily basis. Some of the comments are: "Who is that guy?" and "Doesn't he have anything better to do?"

Lots of mail

Residents of the 52nd General Assembly Dist. of west Lake County are keeping workers at the Illinois Div. of Transportation busy opening mail. Lake Zurich advocates for relocating Route 22 are seeking 5,000 letters calling for rerouting.

Residents in the vicinity of Route 134 in south Grant Township are gathering letters and petitions calling for reconstruction of the dangerous stretch west of Route 12.

A little bit about a lot of things

Pfarr-fetched folderol and fiddle-faddle:

One day when George Bush was our president his schedule took him inside a supermarket. The press reported our leader was flabbergasted to discover someone had invented price scanners that simplified and expedited the operation of the checkout lines.

After eight years as vice president, plus a few as president and before that our man in China, it had been quite a while since George had ventured out to shop for groceries.

Now, Bill Clinton, famous for his exercising and all-American appetite (jogging over to the nearest junk-food emporium), boasts that he hasn't been inside a McDonald's restaurant since he became president.

Maybe he made that decision when he saw how McDonald's, with its long lines both inside and in the drive-up lane, sometimes no longer qualifies as fast food.

However, it seems almost un-American for a person not to succumb to an occasional Big Mac attack. How's our president indulging himself these days, having pizzas delivered to the White House?

If our out-of-touch commander-in-chief doesn't, as Sitting Bull suggested, walk a few miles in our moccasins, how can he relate to his constituents, the folks who elected him to office? (Although you can't blame me for that caper.)

Shouldn't our presidents be required to experience some of the little battles of everyday life? Commute to work on gridlocked roads, pump their own gas at the mini-mart, wait three-deep in a barber-shop for a haircut, rake leaves, shovel snow, and be seated at a football game behind a jumping-up-and-down fan wearing a cheese-wedge hat?

Speaking of shopping, here's a true story from Halloween, a delightful holiday for little trick-or-treaters and adults who knock themselves out coming up with wild and crazy costumes, but, sadly, for some people who just fell off the turnip truck an excuse to be destructive.

Three teen-agers came into a supermarket line on Halloween, each carrying a dozen eggs. The checkout person, admirably, refused to sell the eggs, saying, "I don't think you're planning to bake a cake."

Things we wouldn't know if we didn't read newspapers:

Little Shimer College in Waukegan advertises itself as "the 3,563rd largest college in the nation ... no organized athletic teams, fraternities, sororities, homecoming games or the like ... just one of 11 U.S. campuses with an ideal intellectual climate."

A woman was arrested at a local supermarket and charged with stealing a bottle of aspirin and a dog bone. Mother Hubbard lives! Bob Newhart of Oak Park says his idol was Jack Benny of Waukegan. "He was," says Newhart, "one of the bravest comedians because he would take as long as it took to tell a story. He would never panic and rush to the punch line."

I like that, because laid-back Jack and button-down Bob are two of my all-time favorites.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dist. 128 board should move forward on construction

I was shocked and upset when I found out about the Dist. 128 vote to delay the construction of a new high school in Vernon Hills, at a school board meeting last Tuesday.

I'm not sure what the board members who voted to delay the new building could be thinking. Certainly, the language of the referendum question was clear. Voters were asked to approve a $48.5 million proposal to build a second high school in Vernon Hills and renovate the existing Butler Lake Campus in Libertyville.

The direction of the electorate was clear—build a new high school and renovate the existing high school campus. Clearly, voters, who had previously defeated referendums to build a new school, are fed up with the overcrowding in the district. The referendum was approved by voters in a 2 to 1 margin—the decisiveness of the vote shows that voters want it now—not when the school board members decide to work on it.

This recent vote to delay action on the new high school campus is a violation of the trust voters put in their elected officials. At a time when voting is already at historically low levels, and voters regularly complain about their lack of trust and confidence, this vote by the school board gives voters another reason to question the actions of their elected officials

As a State Senator and a Vernon Hills resident, I supported this referendum as the best solution to a difficult overcrowding situation in the school district. By their action in voting for their referendum, voters agreed with me. Now, I feel betrayed—and I'm sure other voters and public officials do too.

Honorable board members of Libertyville High School District, please recognize your duty to the residents of this school district. Keep your word and show you support the referendum question.

Stand by the wishes of the people. Give the residents in the high school district what they asked for—move ahead, as quickly as possible, with the construction and renovation project. If you continue to waver, the voters will remember.

State Senator
30th District

Gender makes difference

Imagine if Louise Woodward had been Louis Woodward, male "au pair." Does anyone think the judge would have given Louis "time served" for "shaking" a baby to death in his care? Would anyone believe defense attorney's Scheck's bizarre theory the baby's brain was damaged weeks earlier, but escaped the attention of two doctor parents if a Louis had been involved, not a Louise?

It would have been inconceivable even 20 years ago that a life of a brutally beaten baby would be worth only nine months in jail, no matter what the circumstances. Today we are expected to applaud this verdict as an "act of compassion."

From the gang banger on the street to the FBI "sharpshooter" who is given a medal for killing a defenseless woman with a baby in her arms, we have become a society that thinks killing "inconvenient" persons is an easy way to solve our problems. God help us if we ever face something like a new Great Depression. The whole nation will become a river of blood as we kill each other in the name of our "entitlements" and our "rights."

Residents exploited

Protection or exploitation. Recently, four Third Lake trustees chose to exploit the residents of the Village Nov. 18 by holding to their interpretation of the zoning ordinance; they argue that the owners of Bill's Pub North have the right to a special use permit.

On the other hand, two trustees and the majority of Third Lake homeowners, 73 percent, see the establishing of Bill's Pub North as a threat to their peace of mind and their property values. Consequently, they hold that the Pub does not meet the standards for a Special Use Permit.

I interpret the zoning ordinance as a legal document which protects all property owners in the Village. They, the four trustees with the majority vote, claim that the ordinance gives anyone the right to build just about any structure in Third Lake as long as the owners meet conditions such as hours, lighting, etc. Incidentally, the board can easily reverse these conditions once the establishment begins operation. Unwilling to allow for citizen interpretation of the zoning ordinance, the board voted 4-2 against an advisory referendum on this issue.

What drives the board's liberal interpretation of the Third Lake Zoning Ordinance? Power? Greed? Exploitation? Certainly not the protection of all Third Lake property owners.

Politics tarnishes

Having run for public office in Island Lake, I was convinced that the campaign process brings out the worst in people with all the posturing, name calling, intimidation of local business men and other officials. Even though we were on opposite sides of the campaign, I am an optimist and I though Charles Amrich and his running mates would still do what was best for the village though we did not agree on the priorities.

Eight months later, I am sad to say my optimism was misplaced. It started with the political cleansing of the various village committees liberal raises and promotions for those who helped with his campaign, and firing those who didn't help. It continued with inflated department budgets, ramming through a budget proposal which was riddled with math errors and bloated without a discussion. If that wasn't enough, they had to politicize our police department and run Chief Bach out of town. And now, they are trying to slander and restrain Trustee Sharp, the one person who has rightly questioned their actions. They are censuring him for doing what he is supposed to do—Protect the Public interest.

While the campaign process may bring out the worst in people, I am afraid it showed Charles Amrich and his running mates at their well-heeled best. It's only going to get worse from here, as long as the people of this town keep turning away from the ugliness within their ranks.

Terrific people get a 'Four-T' rating

Over the years I've met many terrific people. Contrary to the headlines and the 6 p.m. news, there are a lot of wonderful folks left in the world. You know the ones I mean. They are the folks whose names come up from time-to-time, and someone always exclaims, "Oh, what a terrific person."

Have you ever wondered what makes terrific people so terrific? Why are they so esteemed among their peers? Why are they so often sought out for advice? Why is their assistance crucial to the success of so many worthwhile projects?

I believe, if you study the lives of these terrific folks you'll find four traits that are always evident. I'd like to share them with you.

Terrific traits

- The Thorough Trait. According to my dictionary, thorough means to "carry through to the end" or to "be considerate of the details." Because so few of us every carry out fully all the projects we start, thorough people appear terrific by contrast.

I'll admit this is a characteristic I need to work on. Sometimes my follow-through is weak. I need to work on carrying out the details.

Let me point out quickly that I'm not advocating that you should become a "detail nut" or a "perfectionist." I have seen folks who accomplish little because they focus on small, unimportant details.

What I'm encouraging here is that we tackle a job and see it through to the end. If you become a stay-with-it person, folks will think you're terrific.

- The Tactful Trait. Another characteristic of terrific folks is their tactful nature. They have a way of expressing thoughts—even negative thoughts—in a manner that doesn't offend.

I used to think that some folks were born with tact, and others totally without it. Now, I believe that the terrific person becomes tactful with studied practice. They carefully consider the feelings of others before blurting out the obvious. They are no less truthful than others, they just find ways to deliver the truth in non-offensive ways.

- The Truthful Trait. Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "Truth is the property of no individual but is the treasure of all men." Terrific people share this treasure. They make it a daily part of their lives. As politically incorrect as it may be today, truthfulness is a terrific trait.

Telling the truth is often more difficult than changing facts to suit the situation. Truth is refreshing where lies are discouraging. Truth is freedom. Lies make you a slave to more lies.

Truth is tactful. Poet Robert Browning said, "So absolutely good is truth, truth never hurts." There are times when terrific people don't tell the truth. They don't lie either. When the truth would cause someone needless pain, they say nothing. They are no less honest for keeping some thoughts to themselves. In fact, that is one more reason they're terrific folks—they're thoughtful.

- The Thoughtful Trait. Webster defines thoughtful as "considerate of others; kind." The terrific folks we know do care about the feelings of others. They are courteous and polite. Before taking any action that might hurt someone else, they think. Because they think, they

The NSPR Award for Excellence, presented annually, represents the highest distinction for corporate citizenship in the field of parks and recreation.

It recognizes Abbott's decades of commitment of corporate and employee volunteer resources to environmental, cultural and youth programs of the Lake County Forest Preserves. NSPR recognized the partnership between the Lake County Forest Preserves and Abbott Laboratories as an outstanding example of how corporate citizenship can enhance park and recreation opportunities for an entire region.

Abbott received the award for its consistent support of forest preserve conservation, educational and recreational initiatives. For the past 15 years, Abbott has played an active role with Lake County Youth Conservation Corps, a program that teaches at-risk teenagers about good work ethics, the environment and conservation. After federal funding was cut in 1981, Abbott raised funds for program and supported a special crew of low-income youth.

For eight consecutive years, Abbott has underwritten costs of the Friends of Ryerson Woods' Smith Symposium, a lecture and workshop series on nature that is held on weekends each May at the forest preserves' educational center at Ryerson Woods. Abbott also sponsors college internships at the forest preserves' Lake County Museum.

Abbott employees regularly participate in special forest preserve projects, including Arbor Day tree plantings, cleanup days, conservation work, museum docents and nature education. An Abbott executive also serves on the forest preserves' Partnership Council, which includes representatives from business, development, government, conservation, recreation, parks, education and tourism in Lake County. The council provides insight on all facets of forest preserve operation and development.

"Abbott's sustained and growing partnership with the Lake County Forest Preserves has greatly advanced our education, recreation and conservation programs," said Robert M. Buhai, Lake County Forest Preserves president. "The long-term impact of Abbott's corporate citizenship will extend even greater benefits to the community for generations to follow."

The NRPA is a national, non-profit service organization comprised of 23,000 individuals and organizations in national, state and local recreation and parks agencies, corporations and citizens groups. NRPA's resources include 108,000 local park and recreation sites nationwide that are used by 75 percent of the U.S. population.

BUSINESS NOTES

Headed for debt disaster

"Get Completely Out of Debt" is a comprehensive seminar that shows people how to get completely out of debt—how to operate 100 percent on cash, never using credit again—and how to build retirement wealth with the money they had been wasting on debt payments. FINANCIAL FOCUS

Money market funds: Cash parking lots

While you're busy working toward a financially secure future, building up a long-term portfolio that includes growth and income investments, don't forget one thing: cash. You still need cash reserves — not only to pay for big expenses, but also to help you avoid dipping into your long-term investments if an emergency arises.

One of the best places to keep your cash reserves is in a money market mutual fund — and evidently, more people are discovering this. Last year, assets of money market funds increased almost 20 percent, to $901.8 billion. Money market assets represented 26 percent of total mutual fund assets, exceeding the 25 percent representation of bond and income funds. (Stock funds still lead, with 49 percent of total mutual fund assets.)

Money market funds pay a steady income that is relatively high compared to bank accounts, CDs and other vehicles offering immediate liquidity. Money market funds are not insured by the FDIC; the principal of the underlying assets is backed by the mutual fund company.

How much better is the income on a money market fund than that of other savings vehicles? The June 1997 issue of Ticker, a professional financial publication, compared a hypothetical $50,000 investment earning 2.6 percent annually in a bank money market account to a money market fund paying 4.75 percent. Allowing the two investments to compound monthly over 10 years, the bank deposit was worth $64,969, but the money market fund grew to $80,643.

Most, if not all, money market funds charge no commissions for buying or selling. They offer check-writing privileges, telephone redemption and instant access — all with no commission.

Following are a few pointers on using money market funds:

1. Use money market mutual funds for emergency cash. Most investors want some cash readily available for the unexpected. How much depends on your comfort level and the amount of your expenses. Most professionals say you should have at least three to six months' worth of living expenses in a liquid account.

This could vary according to the liquidity of other assets. A family with $100,000 in mutual funds, which are easily sold, may be comfortable with less cash reserves than a family with real estate, which typically takes longer to turn into cash.

2. Use tax-exempt or taxable money market funds depending on your tax bracket. Money market funds that are free of federal income tax, and often state taxes, have lower interest rates than taxable funds — but for someone in a high tax bracket (usually 31 percent or higher), this tax-free income could actually give you more than you would net on a taxable money market fund.

3. Don't use a money market fund as your primary investment.

Historically, money market funds have yielded much less than other investments. For your long-term goals, you need something that offers higher income and more potential for growth.

For ready cash, however, money market funds can be an ideal place to park your dollars.

Understanding tax laws of charitable gift giving benefits donor, recipient

While donating a sizeable amount to a university, foundation, museum or other charitable institution can be a very rewarding experience, it is important to remember that it is a financial transaction and must be planned accordingly.

"Prior to making a donation or drafting a will that names a qualified charitable organization as a beneficiary, one should analyze the relevant tax laws to be sure to maximize both the amount of the donation and the related tax benefits," says Nancy Hermann, vice president of The Northern Trust Company's Naperville branch.

According to Hermann, charitable gifts qualify for a tax deduction within the tax law's limits on annual charitable deductions. For donations to publicly supported charities, the annual maximum is 50 percent of one's adjusted gross income. The remaining portion can be deducted over the next five years.

Hermann suggests a few methods for making tax-beneficial charitable donations:

- Selling stock or other investments can be an excellent strategy if one is able to claim a loss on the sale. However, if there is not a loss, selling appreciated assets can be a costly move, as the donor will essentially be giving to both the charity and the IRS.

Of note, however, is The Taxpayer Relief

Act of 1997 which extends through June 30, 1998 a special provision that allows charitable deduction based on fair market value for the transfer of "qualified appreciated stock" to private foundations.

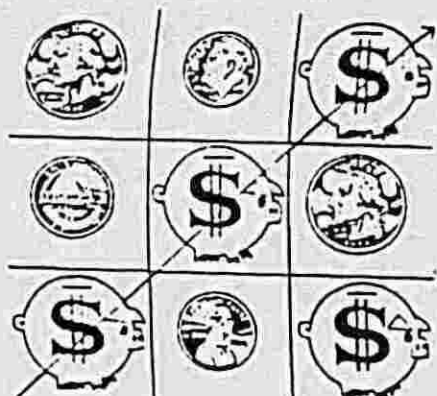

- Making donations in kind, as opposed to cash, preserves a donor's full charitable deduction and generates no capital gains taxes, regardless of the magnitude. Deductions for gifts to publicly supported charities are based on the gift's fair market value at the time of donations. This results in a larger gift than if the asset was sold, because otherwise taxes would be paid on it and only the remaining amount given to a charity.

- Charitable remainder trusts involve the transfer of gift assets to a trust instead of to a charity, with a legal commitment to pass the assets to the charity at the end of a trust's term. Establishing charitable remainder trusts provides an opportunity to take an immediate and substantial tax deduction and receive payments of the life of the trust.

Additionally, appreciated assets can be put into the trust and then sold tax free, with the proceeds reinvested.

A charitable trust that meets IRS guidelines is generally exempt from income tax, though payments made to beneficiaries are not.

Social Security benefits: What you can, can't count on

When it comes to Social Security benefits, people have a lot of misconceptions about what to expect. Some people are convinced they'll never see a Social Security check. Others mistakenly believe they can live entirely on their Social Security checks alone during their retirement years. The Illinois CPA Society offers the following overview to clarify how Social Security can and can't help you during your retirement years.

You can count on getting an estimate of your benefits from the Social Security Administration (SSA). To learn more about your benefits, call 1(800)772-1213 and ask for Form 7004-SM, Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement. You also can download Form 7004 from the SSA's Internet site. In three to four weeks, you'll receive a statement that shows your Social Security earnings history and how much taxes you have paid into the program. It also estimates your future benefits (in today's dollars) and explains how to qualify for benefits.

You can't count on retiring with full benefits at age 65. Today, the normal retirement age is 65, but that is gradually changing. If you were born between 1943 and 1954, the retirement age for receiving full Social Security benefits will be 66.

Thereafter, the retirement age for receiving full benefits will continue to be raised in two-month increments so that if you were born in 1960 or later, you won't qualify for full benefits until you reach age 67.

You can count on receiving benefits even if you're working. According to the SSA, there's no law against working after your retire, but there are limits on what you can earn without affecting your monthly benefits.

Generally, the exempt amount increases each year with increases in the national average wage index. In determining whether your income is within the limit, count only compensation and net income from self-employment. Other income, such as that from interest, dividends, capital gains, gifts, or inheritances, does not affect your monthly benefit.

If you are under age 65, you can earn $8,640 in 1997. Earn more than $8,640 this year, and your benefit check will be reduced by $1 for every $2 over the limit. If you are between the ages for 65 and 69 in 1997, you can earn up to $13,500 this year and still receive your entire benefit check.

However, if you earn more than this sum, your benefit check will be reduced by $1 for every $3 over the limit. Once you reach age 70, you can earn an unlimited amount and still receive the full amount of Social Security benefits to which you are entitled. If you plan to work, you will need to provide the SSA with an estimate of your future earnings. Your benefits are based on this estimate, so it's important to be as accurate as possible. At the end of each year, you file a report of your actual earnings. The IRS will send you a check to make up the difference if your estimate was too high. If your estimate was too low, the overpayment will be withheld from your checks during the following year.

You can count on receiving more if you delay receiving benefits. The later you start collecting, the larger your payments. If you continue working past age 65, you can earn delayed-retirement credits which, based on your age, increase your benefits by a certain percentage for each year you delay benefits up to age 70. This delay means that each Social Security check you collect when you retire will be larger than it would have been if you started taking benefits at your normal retirement age.

Once you turn age 70, the amount you're eligible for won't increase any further.

Take steps to be sure credit history is error-free

Before you apply for a mortgage loan, car loan or other credit, the Ill. CPA Society recommends that you take the time to check your credit record.

Obtain copies of credit report

The credit history of most Americans is recorded by three large national bureaus: TRW (1-800-682-7654), Equifax (1-800-658-1111) and Trans Union (216-779-7200). TRW will provide you with one free report annually. The two other national bureaus, Equifax and Trans Union, will also provide you with a copy of their report for a small fee, usually under $10. However, if you are denied credit because of information in your credit history, these agencies are obligated to send you a free copy of the problem report within 30 days of your request.

When requesting a copy of your report, you must provide your name, current address, addresses for the past five years, social security number and year of birth. If you are married, even if you and your spouse have joint credit accounts, you can only obtain individual reports.

What's included in credit report

Your credit report includes certain biographical data such as your social security number, age, employer and current salary. In addition, it contains specific credit information gathered by various private companies and lending institutions. This includes outstanding credit card balances as well as automobile loans, government-backed student loans, small business loans and lines of credit. The report also indicates how promptly you pay these loans—key information for a potential lender. Additionally, bankruptcy filings, tax liens and sometimes even divorce settlements are noted in the report.

Under federal law, adverse credit information can only be kept on your report for seven years, except for bankruptcy entries, which are listed for 10 years.

Typical errors

There are a wide range of errors that may turn up in your credit report. Some of these may occur at the credit bureau and others are a result of a creditor or other provider supplying misinformation.

The most common errors made by credit bureaus are minor, such as reporting an incorrect social security number, date of birth or employer. These items are not likely to jeopardize your ability to obtain credit. Credit bureaus also have been known to mix up credit files. For example, your credit history could include accounts of a relative or another individual who has a similar name.

Creditors may also provide erroneous information, such as indicating a failure to make timely payments or reporting closed credit card accounts as open. In the latter case, potential new creditors may get the impression that you already have too much credit available and thus reject a new credit application.

How to correct errors

As soon as you notice an error in your credit report, contact the credit reporting agency. Usually it's best to explain in writing how items need to be corrected. To expedite the process, provide proof that your assertions are correct, such as documentation indicating that you closed an account or a copy of a birth certificate showing you would have been too young to open an account which is being attributed to you. The credit bureau will contact creditors who supplied the questionable information on your credit report. CPAs recommend that you also contact these creditors yourself and ask them to notify the appropriate credit bureau about the error and how it should be corrected.

More kid clubs needed

I'm a kid and I don't get to do a whole lot of things. Why aren't there more clubs out there for kids?

Think for yourself

The anti-administration group has taken control of the Dist. 46 school board and elected the puppetmaster president. Ursula, John and Maureen, cut your ties from the puppetmaster and think for yourself. Don't destroy all the hard work that's been put into our schools.

Grayslake

Some Christian

In response to "Lighten up," I don't understand how someone can say they're a Christian and pro-choice. How can it be okay with God to murder innocent children?

Antioch

Limit referendums

Citizens should remember that school districts are more than education centers. They are also a major taxing body and have the power and self-interest to increase everyone's taxes. That is why teacher union supporters often try to dominate such areas as school boards and PTAs.

School districts can run referendum upon referendum, thus ignoring defeat at the voting booth, with the hope of eventually getting their tax increase through. These tax referendums should be limited and voting should be held only on major election days. This would avoid sneak referendums like the recent Lake Villa Dist. 41, which saw less than 2,500 voters turn out and have the $14.7 million debt issue pass by a mere 50 votes. Everyone in Lake Villa will now be responsible for this debt.

Antioch

Smoking prevention

I've got a great idea to try to get pre-teen girls to not take up smoking. Have the group Hanson come on TV and say they never smoke and they wouldn't date a girl who smoked. This would do a great service in preventing teen girls from smoking.

Let everyone know

I'm calling about the Lake Villa Timberwolves. There seems to be a problem relaying messages to all their cheerleaders unless they're good friends or relatives. There were many girls who weren't notified about the Antioch competition and were upset. What's wrong here? Isn't all of our money good enough? Think about changing coaches so there is no more favorites being played.

Thanks for helping

I moved to Twin Lakes about five years ago, but I always went to Fojtik's Pharmacy because I like the personal service there. I want to say thanks to Walgreens, who made the transition easier when Fojtik's closed. Thanks for having such good help and welcoming Fojtik's customers.

A bill's a bill

It's a dirty shame when our 12-year-old daughter can't collect $10 for a subscription for 30 days of newspaper delivery. So-called citizens keep telling her to come back in rude language. Please stop and think and don't do that to a 12-year-old girl. A bill's a bill.

Plea to developers

My heart aches when I see our woodlands and wetlands being sacrificed and destroyed for homes and condominiums. These natural areas are what makes northwest Lake County such a special place to live. This is a plea to developers and our elected officials: please stop pushing quantity over quality. Or soon we'll just be another Chicago suburb jam-packed with concrete and convenience stores, but lacking a soul.

Ingleside

No low-income housing

I don't want low-income housing, tax-free built here in Lake Zurich. We have too many tax-free institutions and buildings as it is. We don't need any more construction. Who's going to take care of keeping all the trucks from going down residential streets? Let 'em build in Barrington!

Tiny kingdoms

Here in Lake Zurich, it seems like everyone is setting up their own little kingdoms. The citizens have nothing to say about what they do and the board doesn't talk about it during meetings. We have Dist. 95, where we have no control over speeding buses, and we have the fire department setting up stations all over, buying expensive equipment (there's only about three fires in Lake Zurich a year). Now we have the police department who wants to take care of everybody and build a police station. They haven't talked about how we'll pay for it. These are little kingdoms set up by department heads. Our mayor is just part-time. I think we need home rule.

Lake Zurich

Calm down

This is in regard to referendum on the civic center that got turned down for the second time. It seems like the mayor is upset because she didn't get one of her wishes going through. I can't believe we don't even have the money yet from the landfill. In coming years, we'll probably need that money for new schools or additions. I get rather suspicious when I see pushy politics, when the mayor and trustees get angry when their interests are turned down. I wish they would calm down a little bit and not push things down our throats.

Round Lake Park

Don't contribute

According to recent reports, Chicago and its 50-mile radius is one of the most polluted cities in the country, out of over 300 cities. Why are people not listening to this? If you're in a polluted area, you don't burn firewood and contribute to it. Children have allergies, ear problems, colds, etc. and are more susceptible than adults. Why don't people do something about the environment, rather than expecting the industrial companies to cut back? The real problem is overpopulation.

Out-of-whack world

Fertility drugs should be banned. It's just sick that humans are now having litters of babies. It costs thousands of dollars in fertility treatments and millions in medical bills. Then these people get breaks on taxes and goods because they're freaks of nature. To spend all this money for some selfish vanity is insane, where there are so many homeless children and orphans. What an out of whack world we live in, when you have to reproduce yourself in order to be fulfilled.

No joke

Do you want to hear a good one? My husband and I wanted to make home alterations on our one acre property, with a 10-year-old, properly working septic system. We tried to apply for permits from the health department, and were asked to spend $50,000 on an experimental septic system, even though the majority of our neighbors in our community have only holes in the ground and no septic at all. We were told also, that we did not belong there. This is ridiculous. Septic systems do not work in certain weather conditions. The only affordable option for people is to build chicken coops if they have to suffer the expenditure of these experimental systems. Why punish the property owners for not having sanitary sewer systems? Give us a way of getting a sewer system. Where is our leadership to accomplish this goal? Remember this, county employees, we unincorporated people represent only about 48 percent of the populace, and are a force to be reckoned with. Come election time, you will blush if we can't flush.

Antioch Township

Harmless to people

To "Coyote problems," I understand you have a problem with coyotes and how you're afraid for your children. I'm only a teenager, but I did a report on coyotes and what we learned is that normally, they leave people alone because they're afraid of people. Unless the coyotes exhibit odd behavior, you have no reason to fear. If it still bothers you, you might want to put up a fence.

Families in crisis

I live in Lake Zurich and my neighbor and I look out after each other's houses when we're not home. Recently, a whole bunch of children were running through their yard, hitting their trees, tearing up shrubs, etc. I told them to get out of the yard or I was going to call the police. Five minutes later, their mother came over screaming that I scared her children. Well, I'm more scared for her children than she knows. Even though we don't have children, there's a crisis for families in this country and it's because of parents like her. Kids don't belong in other people's yards destroying their property. If she can't figure that out, she's the one with the problem.

Lake Zurich

Privilege, not problem

This is in response to "Coyote problems." Seeing a coyote run through your yard is not a problem, it's a privilege. As long as the coyote keeps moving, it's not a problem. If it's laying down, I would suggest calling Conservation or Animal Control so they can check the animal. As for domestic pets, if you have an animal under 40 pounds, keep an eye on them when they're in the yard. I would suggest not letting your cat out at all, because coyotes love them.

No conflict of interest

This is in response to the person who said no to vouchers in the Nov. 21 Lipservice. I'm a veteran who received money from the federal government to go to school. I could have used the money to go to Notre Dame, DePaul, Loyola, etc., all Catholic universities. There's no conflict of interest between church and government by vouchers. The vouchers are given to the parents of children to use as they see fit to educate their children. Wake up and read the constitution. If not, then we may as well extend it to everyone and cut off benefits from veterans who want educational assistance.

Need library moved

This is in response to "Don't move library" in Mundelein. We have to move the library to the Midlothian site. We have a growing population in Mundelein and the library is way too small now and there's nowhere to park. We need to get more people involved and get it moved from downtown. Keeping a library won't improve the downtown area.

Mundelein

Special privileges

Hey, watch's our watchdog? Mary Jane, did you know that the Grayslake Dist. 46 school board is spending $4,000 so that they can go downtown and stay at the Sheraton to attend a conference? What happened to driving or taking the train? I don't understand why it's okay for the school board to spend $4,000, but it wasn't okay for the park district.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search:

I am approaching graduation from an area University with honors, and have just recently completed my resume which I am sending along for your review. I am getting all sorts of feedback, good and bad from family and friends as to how to set it up, and getting extremely confused by what is and is not acceptable. One item which I hope that you will advise me on is the fact that I am bi-lingual and do not know how to list this on my resume. I currently can speak fluent Spanish, French and German, and could be an asset to many corporations that are international, but please tell me where on my resume should I place this information. My mother says I should list it in my objective. My friend says that my objective is not the place they (the employer) will notice it. What do you think? Any help you could offer when reviewing my resume would also be greatly appreciated. Thank you for your time.
R.L. - Mundelein

Dear R.L.:

Thank you for your letter. I envy the fact that you can speak 3 languages besides English. You must be one of those fortunate individuals that picks up on languages like they were nothing. First let's start out with the fact that if you have two languages, that would make you bi-lingual. Any more...multi-lingual. I would have to agree with your friend that perhaps you should not place such distinct information in your objective. Your objective should be your desire in employment. While you may desire to be employed in an area that can utilize your multi-lingual talents, I would not make your objective the only place to expound on that. It is alright to blurb it in the objective by saying something such as "...to utilize my multi-lingual talents... but I would not be remiss in adding it further to your resume by actually stating something such as "multi-lingual, fluency in English, Spanish, French and German". You have a great resume in the works. I am mailing this back with notations. Good Luck

Dear Search:

I am currently working two jobs and both locations are very near to one another. Neither employer is aware of the other. I leave one and have 15 minutes to be at the next. I have never experienced a problem until now. My daytime employer which is a large company, has recently announced that they will be changing their hours to extend 1/2 hour longer than before, beginning December 1st. This unfortunately will now make me 15 minutes late for my second job each day. I have heard that my day time employer frowns down upon "moonlighting", or working a second job. Should I risk talking to him about the situation? My biggest concern is that my job with him will be in jeopardy. What do you suggest?
T.S. - Libertyville

Dear T.S.:

I think you should be open with him if you feel there is a chance that you may be able to work something out such as taking a shorter lunch, omitting a break, coming in 1/2 hour earlier each day, or working on Saturday. If this is the employer that is your "primary" employer, (the job you most depend on), you may want to see if you can first work something out with your secondary employer so as not to rock the boat. This is a risk many people take, but it is possible that you are not the only employee in this company that will experience a problem with this change in hours. You may find your employer has already made provisions for employees with the same situation. In this economy it is not uncommon for people to hold more than one job. Which ever employer you decide to approach, first inform them how important your job is to you and that you would truly hate to jeopardize it. Things may fall in to place better than you think.

"Lucky & Lulu"

"LUCKY & LULU" are two exceptionally adorable, smaller midsize shepherd/collie mixes. This picture perfect pair is simply outstanding in every way. The neutered male, Lucky has a handsome, reddish brown brindle soft wavy coat. The spayed female, Lulu has a pretty black and brown brindle silky coat. Both dogs are just a year old. They are eminently trainable and will learn quickly. Lucky and Lulu exhibit the fine qualities associated with this excellent breed mix - namely loyalty, friendliness, intelligence and affection. These two dogs are calm and delightfully sweet and responsive. They are clearly devoted to each other and extremely attached. They were found running stray together and were no doubt raised together as puppies. If you have room in your home and heart for two wonderful dogs, you simply will not find a nicer pair than these. Lucky and Lulu are in Cage 36.

ALL DOGS BENEFIT FROM BASIC HOUSEBREAKING & OBEDIENCE TRAINING WHICH HELPS BOND DOG TO OWNER. CRATING IS RECOMMENDED WHEN THE OWNER IS AWAY FOR THE FIRST YEAR IF NEEDED.

Cash $55 donation includes free spay/neuter, collar, tag, leash, first shots, follow up care and much more.

Orphans of the Storm is located at 2200 Riverwoods Rd., Deerfield. Hours are 11 am to 5 pm, seven days a week. Call (847) 945-0235 for further information.
